Life Science Pscope November2014:

Towards an embodied science of intersubjectivity: Widening the scope of social understanding research

Ezequiel Di Paolo, Hanne De Jaegher, 2015-06-16 An important amount of research effort in psychology and neuroscience over the past decades has focused on the problem of social cognition. This problem is understood as how we figure out other minds relying only on indirect manifestations of other people's intentional states which are assumed to be hidden, private and internal. Research on this question has mostly investigated how individual cognitive mechanisms achieve this task. A shift in the internalist assumptions regarding intentional states has expanded the research focus with hypotheses that explore the role of interactive phenomena and interpersonal histories and their implications for understanding individual cognitive processes. This interactive expansion of the conceptual and methodological toolkit for investigating social cognition we now propose can be followed by an expansion into wider and deeply related research questions beyond but including that of social cognition narrowly construed. Our social lives are populated by different kinds of cognitive and affective phenomena that are related to but not exhausted by the question of how we figure out other minds. These phenomena include acting and perceiving together, verbal and non-verbal engagement, experiences of disconnection, management of relations in a group, joint meaning making, intimacy, trust, conflict, negotiation, asymmetric relations, material mediation of social interaction, collective action, contextual engagement with socio-cultural norms, structures and roles etc. These phenomena are often characterized by a strong participation by the cognitive agent in contrast with the spectatorial stance typical of social cognition research. We use the broader notion of embodied intersubjectivity to refer to this wider set of phenomena. This Research Topic aims to investigate relations between these different issues to help lay strong foundations for a science of intersubjectivity, the social mind writ large. To contribute to this goal we encouraged contributions in psychology, neuroscience, psychopathology, philosophy and cognitive science that address this wider scope of intersubjectivity by extending the range of explanatory factors from purely individual to interactive, from observational to participatory.

Learning Under the Lens Annemaree Carroll, Ross Cunnington, Annita Nugent, 2020-12-01 Learning Under the Lens: Applying Findings from the Science of Learning to the Classroom highlights the innovative approach being undertaken by researchers from the disparate fields of neuroscience, education and psychology working together to gain a better understanding of how we learn and its potential to impact student learning outcomes. The book is structured in four parts. Science of learning: a policy perspective sets the scene for this emerging field of research. Self-regulation of learning and Technology and learning feature findings by eminent international and national researchers in the field and provides an insight into some of the innovative research illustrating the depth, breadth and multi-disciplinarity of the research. Research translation focuses on the scaled-up implementation of research findings in authentic learning settings and showcases research findings which are having impact in learning environments. This fascinating book is intended as a reference tool to create awareness among researchers policy makers and education practitioners of the research being undertaken in the science of learning field and its potential to impact student learning outcomes Power and Energy

Richard Kong,2015-05-06 Power and Energy contains 86 selected papers from the International Conference on Power and Energy CPE 2014 Shanghai China 29 30 November 2014 and presents a wide range of topics Energy management planning and policy making Energy technologies and environment Energy prospects Conventional and renewable power generation Power system man Dual-use life science research and biosecurity in the 21st Century: Social, Technical, Policy, and Ethical Challenges

Jonathan E. Suk,Kathleen M. Vogel,Amanda Jane Ozin,2015-06-04 In September 2011 scientists announced new experimental findings that would not only threaten the conduct and publication of influenza research but would have significant policy and intelligence implications The findings presented a modified variant of the H5N1 avian influenza virus hereafter referred to as the H5N1 virus that was transmissible via aerosol between ferrets These results suggested a worrisome possibility the existence of a new airborne and highly lethal H5N1 virus that could cause a deadly global pandemic In response a series of international discussions on the nature of dual use life science arose These discussions addressed the complex social technical political security and ethical issues related to dual use research This Research Topic will be devoted to contributions that explore this matrix of issues from a variety of case study and international perspectives

Rethinking Life at the Margins Michele

Lancione,2016-04-20 Experimenting with new ways of looking at the contexts subjects processes and multiple political stances that make up life at the margins this book provides a novel source for a critical rethinking of marginalisation Drawing on post colonialism and critical assemblage thinking the rich ethnographic works presented in the book trace the assemblage of marginality in multiple case studies encompassing the Global North and South These works are united by the approach developed in the book characterised by the refusal of a priori definitions and by a post human and grounded take on the assemblage of life The result is a nuanced attention to the potential expressed by everyday articulations and a commitment to produce a processual vitalist and non normative cultural politics of the margins The reader will find in this book unique challenges to accepted and authoritative thinking and provides new insights into researching life at the margins

The Routledge Companion to European Business Gabriele Suder,Monica Riviere,Johan Lindeque,2018-07-18 International Business is a well established research field in which regionalisation has gained prominence in the last decade Because Europe is a market that shows specific patterns of highly advanced market integration European Business is a subject in its own right and with its own research momentum In particular firms view Europe as a challenging mostly yet not entirely mature market location that is subject to complexities that help reveal strategic corporate strengths and weaknesses Europe represents a location that undergoes frequent and rapid change due to its geo economic and geopolitical position This comprehensive reference volume brings together a global team of contributors to analyze and overview the key issues themes and phenomena that affect business in Europe With interdisciplinary perspectives from key disciplines the book covers a range of vital themes such as culture entrepreneurship identity human rights and climate change The selection of authors reflects the international scope of this book and is drawn from institutions located in 17 countries across Europe A unique resource this book covers a region undergoing significant geoeconomic and geopolitical change and provides a comprehensive guide to research students and scholars of business and the social sciences

Commerce, Justice, Science, and Related Agencies Appropriations for 2015 United States. Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on Commerce, Justice, Science, and Related Agencies,2014

Art and Future Peter Stupples,Jane Venis,2018-04-18 This selection of essays examines the future of art in a changing world In particular contributors discuss the agency of art in conditions of ecological threats to the natural world to climate change and the effects of globalisation neoliberal economics and mass tourism Following the lead of Chicago based Frances Whitehead whose essay is a key text some contributors take positions on working with local government agencies to embed art thinking within development projects going back to the art thinking at the centre of Kazimir Malevich's work in Vitebsk one hundred years ago in Russia Other papers highlight small scale art interventions that bring ecological issues to public notice and suggest positive responses whilst others discuss large scale problems brought about by the social economic and laissez faire history of the emerging Anthropocene with possible dystopic outcomes

Why We Need the Humanities Donald Drakeman, 2016-02-25 An entrepreneur and educator highlights the surprising influence of humanities scholarship on biomedical research and civil liberties This spirited defence urges society to support the humanities to obtain continued guidance for public policy decisions and challenges scholars to consider how best to fulfil their role in serving the common good

The Politics and Perils of Space Exploration Linda Dawson, 2016-11-22 Written by a former Aerodynamics Officer on the space shuttle program this book provides a complete overview of the new U S space program which has changed considerably over the past 50 years The future of space exploration has become increasingly dependent on other countries and private enterprise Can private enterprise fill NASA's shoes and provide the same expertise safety measures and lessons learned In order to tell this story it is important to understand the politics of space as well as the dangers why it is so difficult to explore and utilize the resources of space Some past and recent triumphs and failures will be discussed pointing the way to a successful space policy that includes taking risks but also learning how to mitigate them

Emergence in Context Robert C. Bishop, Michael Silberstein, Mark Pexton, 2022-06-20 Science philosophy of science and metaphysics have long been concerned with the question of how order stability and novelty are possible and how they happen How can order come out of disorder This book introduces a new account contextual emergence seeking to answer these questions The authors offer an alternative picture of the world with an alternative account of how novelty and order arise and how both are possible Contextual emergence is grounded primarily in the sciences as opposed to logic or metaphysics It is both an explanatory and ontological account of emergence that gets beyond the impasse between weak and strong emergence in the emergence debates It challenges the foundationalist or hierarchical picture of reality and emphasizes the ontological and explanatory fundamentality of multiscale stability conditions and their contextual constraints often operating globally over interconnected interdependent and interacting entities and their multiscale relations It also focuses on the conditions that make the existence stability and persistence of emergent systems and their states and observables possible These conditions and constraints are irreducibly multiscale relations so it is not surprising that scientific explanation is often multiscale Such multiscale conditions act as gatekeepers for systems to access modal possibilities e.g. reducing or enhancing a system's degrees of freedom Using examples from across the sciences ranging from physics to biology to neuroscience and beyond this book demonstrates that there is an empirically well grounded viable alternative to ontological reductionism coupled with explanatory anti reductionism weak emergence and ontological disunity coupled with the impossibility of robust scientific explanation strong emergence Central metaphysics of science concerns are also addressed Emergence in Context A Treatise in Twenty First Century Natural Philosophy is written primarily for philosophers of science but also professional scientists from multiple disciplines who are interested in emergence and particularly in the metaphysics of science Object Lessons and the Formation of Knowledge Kerstin Barndt, Carla M. Sinopoli, 2017-09-19 Object Lessons and the Formation of Knowledge explores the museums libraries and special collections of the University of Michigan on its bicentennial Since its inception U M has collected and preserved objects biological and geological specimens ethnographic and archaeological artifacts photographs and artistic works encyclopedia textbooks rare books and documents and many other items These vast collections and libraries testify to an ambitious vision of the research university as a place where knowledge is accumulated shared and disseminated through teaching exhibition and publication Today two hundred years after the university s founding museums libraries and archives continue to be an important part of U M which maintains more than twenty distinct museums libraries and collections Viewed from a historic perspective they provide a window through which we can explore the transformation of the academy its public role and the development of scholarly disciplines over the last two centuries Even as they speak to important facets of Michigan s history many of these collections also remain essential to academic research knowledge production and object based pedagogy Moreover the university s exhibitions and displays attract hundreds of thousands of visitors per year from the campus regional and global communities Beautifully illustrated with color photographs of these world renowned collections this book will appeal to readers interested in the history of museums and collections the formation of academic disciplines and of course the University of Michigan The Dramaturgy of Performing Science Jules Odendahl-James, 2024-09-02 This is a concise survey of new play projects that bring together the worlds of science and performance and the benefits that dramaturgical praxis can bring to both disciplines Three approaches common to both performance and science collaboration experimentation and interpretation are reflected in a series of case studies that demonstrate the ways in which dramaturgical tools can inform the wider public about scientific knowledge and practice provide a truly reciprocal model of co operation in collaboration that happens early on in the research process and inspire the creation of new dramatic forms that enact rather than translate the dynamics of scientific research Part of the Routledge Focus on Dramaturgy series this is a vital account of collaborative work for scholars and practitioners of theatre and performance as well as readers across the sciences Technical questions and answers for job interview Offshore Drilling Platforms PETROGAV INTERNATIONAL, This book offers you a brief but very involved look into the operations in the drilling of an oil gas wells that will help you to be prepared for job interview at oil gas companies From start to finish you ll see a general prognosis of the drilling process If you are new to the oil gas industry you ll enjoy having a leg up with the knowledge of these processes If you are a seasoned oil gas person you ll enjoy reading what you may or may not know in Science, the State and the City Geoffrey Owen, Michael M. Hopkins, 2016 The book is about the link between science and business how discoveries made in academic laboratories are taken up by venture capitalists and investors and converted into products which if they are successful provide treatments for disease and may generate substantial returns for investors

Surveillance, Privacy and Security Michael Friedewald, J. Peter Burgess, Johann Čas, Rocco Bellanova, Walter Peissl, 2017-03-16 This volume examines the relationship between privacy surveillance and security and the alleged privacy security trade off focusing on the citizen s perspective Recent revelations of mass surveillance programmes clearly demonstrate the ever increasing capabilities of surveillance technologies The lack of serious reactions to these activities shows that the political will to implement them appears to be an unbroken trend The resulting move into a surveillance society is however contested for many reasons Are the resulting infringements of privacy and other human rights compatible with democratic societies Is security necessarily depending on surveillance Are there alternative ways to frame security Is it possible to gain in security by giving up civil liberties or is it even necessary to do so and do citizens adopt this trade off This volume contributes to a better and deeper understanding of the relation between privacy surveillance and security comprising in depth investigations and studies of the common narrative that more security can only come at the expense of sacrifice of privacy The book combines theoretical research with a wide range of empirical studies focusing on the citizen s perspective It presents empirical research exploring factors and criteria relevant for the assessment of surveillance technologies The book also deals with the governance of surveillance technologies New approaches and instruments for the regulation of security technologies and measures are presented and recommendations for security policies in line with ethics and fundamental rights are discussed This book will be of much interest to students of surveillance studies critical security studies intelligence studies EU politics and IR in general A PDF version of this book is available for free in open access via www.tandfebooks.com It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial 3.0 license
