R. Kent, 2014-06-27 What do educated urban people think about God and why? What factors—logical, emotional, experiential, or intuitive—incline them towards belief or towards unbelief? How do they balance these factors? Why do many seem to be swing voters comfortable sitting on the fence, unmotivated to move far either way? What common ground do they share with Christianity? What are their objections to Christian belief and practice and their misunderstandings? Why do many people describe intuitive and emotional attraction to believing in God but resist it intellectually? What apologetic approaches would make most sense specifically to educated urban Australians? What media products do they enjoy and trust? And how should these insights influence apologetics? Grenville Kent asks these questions in one Australian demographic to help target Big Questions, a documentary film series for Christian apologetics Anyone interested in apologetics, evangelical media, and the application of marketing research to evangelism will be interested in this study Inside Television Ned White, 1980

Maarten Pereboom, 2016-09-13 The ability to view recorded moving pictures has had a major impact on human culture since the development of the necessary technologies over a century ago. For most of this time people have gone to the movies to be entertained and perhaps edified but in the meantime television, the videocassette recorder, VCR, the digital versatile disk, DVD player, the personal computer, desktop and laptop, the internet and other technologies have made watching moving pictures possible at home, in the classroom and just about anywhere else. Today moving images are everywhere in our culture. Every day moving picture cameras record millions of hours of activity human and otherwise all over the world. Your cell phone makes a little video of your friends at a party, the surveillance camera at the bank keeps an eye on customers, journalists shoulder-carried cameras record the latest from the war zone and across the world, film artists work on all kinds of movies from low budget independent projects to the next big budget Hollywood blockbuster. Moving pictures have had a great influence on human culture and this book focuses on using moving images as historical evidence. Studying history means examining evidence from the past to understand, interpret and present what has happened in different times and places. We talk and write about what we have learned, hoping to establish credibility both for what we have determined to be the facts and for whatever meaning or significance we may attach to our reconstruction of the past. Studying history is a scientific process involving a fairly set methodology. We tend to favor written sources and we have tended to favor writing as a means of presenting our views of the past. But historians also use all kinds of other documents and artifacts in their work of interpreting the past, including moving pictures.

Reading for Understanding Ruth Schoenbach, Cynthia Greenleaf, Lynn Murphy, 2012-06-15 As elegantly practical as it is theoretically elegant, it is a guided tour as one examines the tools of expert teachers as they engage students in a journey that is aptly dubbed Reading Apprenticeship: learning how to become a savvy strategic reader under the tutelage of thoughtful, caring and demanding teachers. P. David Pearson, University of California Berkeley and founding editor of the Handbook of Reading Research. Reading for Understanding is a monumental achievement. It was a monumental achievement when it came out as a first edition in 1999, bringing years of rigorous reading research together in a framework for teaching that made sense in actual secondary school classrooms. Now just thirteen years later, Schoenbach and Greenleaf have several randomized clinical trials and multiple on-going studies at their fingertips to demonstrate the effects of this approach for developing the reading and thinking of young people in our nation's middle and high school classrooms as well as in community college classrooms. Their careful work on developing disciplinary literacy among all students represents a passion for and commitment to supporting students and their teachers in reading for understanding, which translates to reading for enjoyment, self-awareness, learning and for purposeful and informed action in our society. Elizabeth Moje, Arthur F. Thurnau, Professor and Associate Dean for Research, School of Education, University of Michigan. Reading Apprenticeship has proven to be an inspiration to Renton Technical College faculty and students alike.

They have learned together to view themselves as readers in transformative ways as they embrace powerful techniques to increase reading comprehension. The ideas and strategies in Reading for Understanding anchor this new and broad based energy around reading and an enthusiasm among our faculty to model effective reading strategies for our students. Steve Hanson, President, Renton Technical College, Renton, Washington, Reading for Understanding has the finest blend I have seen of research strategies and classroom vignettes to deepen teacher learning and help them connect the dots between theory and practice. Curtis Refior, Content Area Literacy Coach, Fowlerville Community Schools, Fowlerville, Michigan, A teacher tested research based resource for dramatically improving reading skills. Published in partnership with WestEd, this significantly updated second edition of the bestselling book contains strategies for helping students in middle school through community college gain the reading independence to master subject area textbooks and other material. Based on the Reading Apprenticeship program, which three rigorous gold standard research studies have shown to be effective in raising students reading achievement. Presents a clear framework for improving the reading and subject area learning of all students including English learners, students with special needs, as well as those in honors and AP courses. Provides concrete tools for classroom use and examples from a range of classrooms. Presents a clear how to for teachers implementing the subject area literacies of the Common Core Standards. Reading for Understanding proves it's never too late for teachers and students to work together to boost literacy engagement and achievement.

Food and Eating in America James C. Giesen, Bryant Simon, 2018-02-26. Guides students through a rich menu of American history through food and eating. This book features a wide and diverse range of primary sources covering the cultivation, preparation, marketing, and consumption of food from the time before Europeans arrived in North America to the present day United States. It is organized around what the authors label the Four P's: production, politics, price, and preference, in order to show readers that food represents something more than nutrition and the daily meals that keep us alive. The documents in this book demonstrate that food we eat is a highly condensed social fact that both reflects and is shaped by politics, economics, culture, religion, region, race, class, and gender. Food and Eating in America covers more than 500 years of American food and eating history with sections on: An Appetizer, What Food and Eating Tell Us About America, Hunting, Harvesting, Starving, and the Occasional Feast, Food in Early America, Fields and Foods in the Nineteenth Century, Feeding a Modern World, Revolutions in Farming, Food and Famine, and Counterculture. Cuisines and Culinary Tourism. Presents primary sources from a wide variety of perspectives: Native Americans, explorers, public officials, generals, soldiers, slaves, slaveholders, clergy, businessmen, workers, immigrants, activists, African Americans, Hispanics, Asian Americans, artists, writers, investigative reporters, judges, the owners of food trucks, and prison inmates. Illustrates the importance of eating and food through speeches, letters, diaries, memoirs, newspaper and magazine articles, illustrations, photographs, song lyrics, advertisements, legislative statutes, court rulings, interviews, manifestoes, government reports, and recipes.
