New Directions in Forensic Psychology: Applying Neuropsychology, Biomarkers and Technology in Assessment & Intervention Joan E. Van Horn,Josanne van Dongen,Yvonne H. A. Bouman,Märta Wallinius ,Patrice Renaud,2024-10-23 New trends in research assessment and treatment are currently visible in the forensic field in three relatively separate areas the use of neuropsychology biomarkers and wearables and VR technology in forensic mental health These areas individually can make a valuable contribution to improving forensic assessments and treatment but combined they might even have a greater impact For example heart rate variability a biomarker can be visualized during Virtual Reality VR scenarios to increase patients insights into their physiological responses With our topic New Directions in Forensic Psychology Applying Neuropsychology Biomarkers and Technology in Assessment and Intervention we hope to offer more insight into the state of scientific developments in the aforementioned areas as they relate to forensic psychology As a result we hope to be able to pinpoint lacking knowledge and offer suggestions for further research

Key Challenges in Criminal Investigation Martin O'Neill,2018-02-28 This book offers a comprehensive overview and critical analysis of current and future challenges in criminal investigation carried out by the police in the United Kingdom It is the first book to link current investigative influences on policing and the evidence based agenda and considers the competing agendas of professionalization and austerity analyzing the consequences of these developments in the field Written by an author with extensive practical and training experience the book traces the development of the role of detectives and discusses their training and education

The Resettlement of Sex Offenders after Custody David Thompson,Terry Thomas,2017-07-14 Circles of Support and Accountability is a voluntary initiative that assists people with convictions for sexual offences to resettle in the community People leaving prison with such convictions often have difficulties in resettling They carry the burden of the conviction itself which may be both stigmatising and isolating and they are the subject of sex offender register requirements parole and other supervisory conditions Circles of Support and Accountability in the UK started over ten years ago and have slowly spread across the country They work closely with the police and probation services but rely entirely on volunteers prepared to give up their time to work with people often otherwise shunned by communities Circles offer support to the person concerned but also hold them accountable for their future behaviour They aim to ensure there are no more victims This book is based on original research and provides a close up picture of how these Circles of Support and Accountability work in practice It brings together for the first time the voices of all the participants from the offenders and the volunteers through to the Coordinators who link the volunteers to the professionals in the form of the police and probation services The research was commissioned by Circles UK and funded by the Wates Foundation and the University of Leeds School of Law

Information Technology and Traditional Legal Concepts Richard Jones, Roksana Moore, 2013-10-18 Information technology has served to revolutionise the use exchange and protection of information The growth of the internet the convergence of technologies as well as the development of user generated and social networking sites has meant that significant amounts of person data as well as copyrighted materials are now readily accessible Within this changing cultural landscape the legal concepts of privacy data protection intellectual property and criminality have necessarily had to develop and adapt In this volume a number of international scholars consider this process and whether it has merely been a question of the law adapting to technology or whether technology has been forced to adapt to law Technologies have wrought a culture shift it is therefore apposite to ask whether legal concepts as reflections of culture should also change It is in this volume where papers on privacy data protection intellectual protection and cyber crime begin address this question This book was published as a special issue of International review of Law Computers and Technology
