Gähwiler,2025-05-22 Patient decision aids provide a promising means to empower patients to prepare and participate in Shared Decision Making SDM with health care professionals A wide range of clinically validated and non validated digital and non digital patient decision aids continue to be developed for use in diverse settings and clinical interventions The end users of a given aid may be heterogeneous in their needs abilities backgrounds and personal characteristics Many patient decision aids are developed with the aim of helping patients clarify and communicate their subjective values and preferences in relation to the medical choices at hand Knowledge of these values and preferences can help patients and health care professionals determine the medical intervention that is right for the patient Digital health technologies present unique opportunities for creating new ways to advance the design adoption usage and evaluation of patient centred decision aids and support the clarification and communication of subjective values and preferences However there is a dearth of systematic research on these opportunities This Research Topic focuses on the current use of and the opportunities that digital technologies present for furthering the design development deployment and usefulness of patient decision aids Potential themes include but are not limited to 1 Digital technology and patient decision aids 2 New approaches designs developments and innovations 3 Human factors in elucidating subjective values and preferences 4 Awareness and real world use of digital patient decision aids 5 Usability and acceptability of digital patient decision aids 6 Current and potential applications in different settings 7 Barriers and facilitators to use of digital technology in SDM 8 Future possibilities and challenges of patient decision aids and digital technology 9 Inclusion diversity and accessibility of patient decision aids with digital technology and 10 Ethical technical and regulatory design considerations This Research Topic welcomes original research review method and theory and perspective articles that address the diversity of themes around digital health technologies and human factors in patient decision aids Brief research reports and mini reviews are also encouraged Articles types should be selected that correspond with the stage of research and scope of the contribution systems and create opportunities for developing micro enterprises centered on conservation and management of local resources and lifeline services Half of the world s population today lives in urban areas which account for more than three fourths of the global economy As the cities rapidly expand centralized systems are unable to provide services The households and other users are forced to develop variety of coping systems These coping measures lead to over exploitation of groundwater pollution of local resources urban heat island effects that impact on health and quality of life With the development of new technologies household and colony level options exist for blending centralized and local services Water Recycling offers micro and meso scale options to develop more resources By efficient utilization of local water and energy resources shocks and stresses such as water scarcity water logging flooding and urban heat islands and power cuts can be mitigated to a great extent By conserving local resources households and communities can withstand the impacts of water and energy scarcity commonly faced in the rapidly expanding cities This initiative is supported by The Rockefeller Foundation through Asian Cities Climate Change Resilience Network ACCCRN programme Under ACCCRN programme several decentralize options were demonstrated The demonstration projects included resource and community context analysis to develop options demonstration of community managed water and waste water recycling systems restoration of degraded urban lakes cool roofs and passive ventilation systems The ACCCRN programme also provided opportunities to explore ward level planning options to improve the resilience of communities Research 1970 United States.
