Educational Innovation in Economics and Business Ann Bentzen-Bilkvist, Wim H. Gijssels, Richard G. Milner, 2013-03-09 Many workplaces have become characterized as learning organizations where knowledge workers provide the required competitive edge Due to the dynamic changes in the economic structures adaptive generative lifelong and continuous learning have become norms Leaders in the corporate world have a greater responsibility to provide direction in knowledge building and knowledge delivery systems The key competencies required for leadership have been impacted by the change in corporate structures and the ever changing formats that define competitive business landscapes Traditional universities are also experiencing greater demand to provide the necessary skill sets required by individuals tasked with developing incorporating and communicating new knowledge When it comes to learning models the business focus on continuous improvement makes all the sense in the world It is in this spirit of continuous learning that this book was compiled The seventh volume in the series Educational Innovation in Economics and Business contains a unique selection of articles addressing four major themes I Designing New Education Models II Preparing Students for Work in the Corporate Arena III Using Technology to Enhance Learning Environments and IV Methods to Maximize Student Learning It is meant for educators in corporate training centers as well as for teachers in further and higher education Rethinking Value-Added Models in Education Audrey Amrein-Beardsley, 2014-04-24 Since passage of the No Child Left Behind Act in 2001 academic researchers econometricians and statisticians have been exploring various analytical methods of documenting students academic progress over time Known as value added models VAMs these methods are meant to measure the value a teacher or school adds to student learning from one year to the next To date however there is very little evidence to support the trustworthiness of these models What is becoming increasingly evident yet often ignored mainly by policymakers is that VAMs are 1 unreliable 2 invalid 3 nontransparent 4 unfair 5 fraught with measurement errors and 6 being inappropriately used to make consequential decisions regarding such things as teacher pay retention and termination Unfortunately their unintended consequences are not fully recognized at this point either Given such the timeliness of this well researched and thoughtful book cannot be overstated This book sheds important light on the debate surrounding VAMs and thereby offers states and practitioners a highly important resource from which they can move forward in more research based ways
