Human Development and Faith (Second Edition) Felicity B. Kelcourse, 2015-07-28 This book now in its second edition brings together the best available understandings of human development from a multidisciplinary perspective. Uniquely inclusive of the moral and faith dimensions of context and life cycle development, Human Development and Faith examines the interplay of mind, body, family, community, and soul at every stage of development. It addresses two central questions: What are the good enough conditions of parenting, family, and community in each phase of life from birth to death which support growth and development? What gives life adequate meaning as development proceeds? If human development describes the normative and hoped-for passages of life, then faith provides the necessary component of meaning. Throughout the various perspectives offered in this volume is the premise that faith is that quality of living that makes it possible to fully live. The Journal of Pastoral Theology called the first edition of Human Development and Faith an excellent text for pastoral theology courses because it fulfills its ambitious goal of bringing a holistic faith perspective to the usual topics of development. This second edition includes a new chapter on infancy, updates reflecting our growing awareness of cultural diversity, and a new preface.

Human Development Grace J. Craig, Don Baucum, 1999 Designed for students from a wide range of backgrounds, this text takes a chronological and interdisciplinary approach to human development. An equally and even more distressing dimension of human development is its great unevenness. Even in countries...

Pathways of Human Development Jay A. Mancini, Karen A. Roberto, 2009-08-20 Pathways of Human Development uses theoretical perspectives from developmental social and behavioral sciences to examine the many ways that individuals, families, and communities intersect and interface. Focusing on the impact of change on human development, including its antecedents, processes, and consequences, the chapters examine a range of topics such as health and adaptation, social anxiety, disorder, protective factors, and risk behaviors, parent-child relationships, adolescent sexuality, intergenerational relationships, family stress, and adaptation and community resilience. By extending human development theorizing across these pivotal life-changing issues, this volume offers a comprehensive map of the trajectories of development among individuals, families, and communities.

Arctic Human Development Report Joan Nymand Larsen, Gail Fondahl, 2015-02-18 The goals of the second volume of the AHDR Arctic Human Development Report Regional Processes and Global Linkages are to provide an update to the first AHDR 2004 in terms of an assessment of the state of Arctic human development, to highlight the major trends and changes unfolding related to the various issues and thematic areas of human development in the Arctic over the past decade, and based on this assessment to identify policy-relevant conclusions and key gaps in knowledge, new and emerging Arctic success stories. The production of AHDR II on the tenth anniversary of the first AHDR makes it possible to move beyond the baseline assessment to make valuable comparisons and contrasts across a decade of persistent and rapid change in the North. It addresses critical issues and emerging challenges in Arctic living conditions, quality of life in the North, global change impacts, and adaptation and Indigenous livelihoods. The assessment contributes to our understanding of the interplay and consequences of physical and social change processes affecting Arctic residents' quality of life at both the regional and global scales. It shows that the Arctic is not a homogenous region. Impacts of globalization and environmental change differ within and between regions, between Indigenous and non-Indigenous northerners, between genders, and along other axes.
