Technological Transformation in the Global Pulp and Paper Industry 1800-2018 Timo Särkkä, Miquel Gutiérrez-Poch, Mark Kuhlberg, 2018-10-24 This contributed volume provides 11 illustrative case studies of technological transformation in the global pulp and paper industry from the inception of mechanical papermaking in early nineteenth-century Europe until its recent developments in today's business environment with rapidly changing market dynamics and consumer behaviour. It deals with the relationships between technology transfer, technology leadership, raw material dependence, and product variety on a global scale. The study itemises the main drivers in technology transfer that affected this process, including the availability of technology, knowledge, investments, and raw materials on the one hand, and demand characteristics on the other hand, within regional, national, and transnational organisational frameworks. The volume is intended as a basic introduction to the history of papermaking technology and it is aimed at students and teachers as course material and as a handbook for professionals working in either industry research centres or universities. It caters to graduate audiences in forestry, business, technical sciences and history.

International Economics Policies and Their Theoretical Foundations John M. Letiche, 2014-05-12

International Economics Policies and Their Theoretical Foundations: A Source Book provides information pertinent to the increasing differentiation of international economic policies among the developed and developing market economies. This book presents an analysis of fundamental principles of international economics. Organized into nine parts encompassing 33 chapters, this book begins with an overview of the certain elements of the relationship between the developing and the developed countries that the developing countries find particularly irksome. This text then analyzes the determinants of secular changes in the terms of trade and attempt to assess the influence of these changes on the development of a poor country. Other chapters consider the different concepts of the terms of trade including the gross barter income, net barter or commodity and utility terms of trade. The final chapter deals with the economic scenarios for the 1980s. This book is a valuable resource for teachers, students and government officials.
