Fake Degrees and Fraudulent Credentials in Higher Education Sarah Elaine Eaton, Jamie J. Carmichael, Helen Pethrick, 2023-01-10 This book addresses an important topic in higher education credential fraud. This includes but is not limited to fake degrees, diploma mills, admissions fraud, and cheating on standardized admissions tests. The book directly addresses fake and fraudulent credentials in higher education. It explores transcript tampering and fraud in varsity athletics and discusses lazy practices in the higher education hiring processes that open the door for professors without proper credentials to get jobs in post-secondary institutions. The book also discusses how technology is being used to stop the proliferation of fake and fraudulent credentials in a variety of ways, including blockchain technology. Degree Mills John Bear, 2012-04-24 When the first edition of Degree Mills was published, fake universities and counterfeit degrees were already a significant problem. Fueled by the Internet, this scam continues to grow; now more than half of all people claiming a new PhD in fact have a fake degree. In this updated edition, experts Allen Ezell and John Bear go beyond exposing these fraudulent practices to provide detailed recommendations for government agencies, educational institutions, and individuals on what can be done to rid us of them. This eye-opening and definitive guide shows how degree mills operate and how to check the validity of anyone's degree: an indispensable reference book. Business World, 2004 Infodemic Disorder Gevisa La Rocca, Marie-Eve Carignan, Giovanni Boccia Artieri, 2023-02-15 This contributed volume identifies how the information processes of public institutions and citizens have changed throughout the COVID-19 pandemic within a new context that emerged: the infodemic disorder. Public debate is largely characterized today by a crisis of the legitimacy of institutions accompanied by a crisis of authority in public communication, leading to the emergency of a state of information disorder due specifically to the need to find information related to the coping of the pandemic. This condition is characterized by growing attention to issues related to fake news, misinformation, and media manipulation that are intertwined in digital platform ecosystems and the effects of which on democracy, public communication, and research and the sharing of information in the civic sphere are broad and far-reaching. This volume analyzes the links between communication strategies of public institutions and the resulting citizen communication in an attempt to tease out how communication processes have changed during the pandemic. It was decided to investigate this infodemic disorder as it appeared in three different geographical contexts: Europe, Canada, and Mexico, and at the same time to bring out the formal and informal coping strategies implemented by public institutions and citizens. Beginning with an introduction to the crisis of information created by the pandemic, the contributors build a theoretical framework, provide contagion data, and subsequently, for each of the geographical contexts analyzed, explore the public communication strategies and those activated by citizens seeking to share information. Protocols for Secure Electronic Commerce Mostafa Hashem Sherif, 2017-12-19 Protocols for Secure Electronic Commerce Third Edition presents a compendium of protocols for securing electronic commerce or e-commerce in
