Financial And Insurance Formulas:

Financial and Insurance Formulas Tomas Cipra, 2010-07-16 Financial and insurance calculations become more and more frequent and helpful for many users not only in their professional life but sometimes even in their personal life. Therefore a survey of formulas of financial and insurance mathematics that can be applied to such calculations seems to be a suitable aid. In some cases one should use instead of the term formula more suitable terms of the type method, procedure or algorithm since the corresponding calculations cannot be simply summed up to a single expression and a verbal description without introducing complicated symbols is more appropriate. The survey has the following ambitions. The formulas should be applicable in practice; it has motivated their choice for this survey first and foremost. On the other hand it is obvious that by time one puts to use in practice seemingly very abstract formulas of higher mathematics e.g. when pricing financial derivatives, evaluating financial risks, applying accounting principles based on fair values, choosing alternative risk transfers, ARL in insurance and the like. The formulas should be error free though such a goal is not achievable in full since in the financial and insurance framework one publishes sometimes in a hasty way various untried formulas and methods that may be incorrect. Of course the formulas are introduced here without proofs because their derivation is not the task of this survey.

Towards a Neutral Formulary Apportionment System in Regional Integration Shu-Chien Chen, 2023-03-09 International tax regimes and practices are heavily criticized for failing to fairly levy corporate tax on giant multinational taxpayers in the current globalized and digitalized world. This important and far seeing book demonstrates how formulary apportionment (FA) an approach by which a multinational corporation pays each jurisdiction's corporate tax based on the share of its worldwide income allocated to that jurisdiction can achieve the much sought goal of aligning value creation and taxation. The author through an intensive analysis of the European Union's EU's Common Consolidated Corporate Tax Base (CCCTB) Directive Proposal's and comparison to the United States US's formulary apportionment experience shows how the perceived problems with an FA system can be overcome and lays out the necessary elements for its feasibility. With detailed attention to the debates around formulary apportionment and its theoretical foundations the book provides a blueprint for rebuilding the normative framework for the EU's tax reform by clearly analysing the implications of the following and more theorising public benefits to be represented by taxation reorganising different economic theories about tax neutrality and tax justice advancing the comparative legal research methodology to analyse law reform by combining the functional approach and the problem solving approach designing the logical formulary apportionment system for digital economy ensuring the removal of the incentive for multinationals to shift reported income to low tax locations reducing the tax system's complexity and the administrative burden it imposes on firms eliminating transfer pricing complexity for intra firm transactions achieving equal weighting of the sales factor the labour factor and the asset factor in the formula application of destination based rule for attributing the sales factor and replacing the traditional permanent establishment nexus with a factor presence nexus. The presentation incorporates extensive comparison between the EU's formulary apportionment tax reform option and FA systems existing in the United States US at state level including reference to relevant US case law and legislation As a possible option to address the problem of base erosion and profit shifting BEPS formulary apportionment is gaining increasing acceptance and attention This book will prove invaluable to taxation authorities tax practitioners and scholars in its deeply informed and systematic guidance on good practices and prevention of problematic experiences in establishing and implementing an effective and market neutral FA system
