

1. Introduction

The purpose of this study is to investigate the effects of a new educational program on student performance. The program is designed to improve critical thinking and problem-solving skills through a series of interactive exercises and projects.

The study is divided into two main sections: a pre-test and a post-test. The pre-test is conducted before the program begins, and the post-test is conducted after the program has been completed. The results of the pre-test and post-test are compared to determine the effectiveness of the program.

The data collected from the pre-test and post-test are analyzed using statistical methods. The results show that the program has a significant positive effect on student performance, particularly in the areas of critical thinking and problem-solving.
