Human Ecology Daniel G. Bates, Judith Tucker, 2010-03-29 This book arose from the need to develop accessible research based case study material which addresses contemporary issues and problems in the rapidly evolving field of human ecology Academic political and indeed public interest in the environmental sciences is on the rise This is no doubt spurred by media coverage of climate change and global warming and attendant natural disasters such as unusual drought and flood conditions toxic dust storms pollution of air and water and the like But there is also a growing intellectual awareness of the social causes of anthropogenic environmental impacts political vectors in determining conservation outcomes and the role of local representations of ecological knowledge in resource management and sustainable yield production This is reflected in the rapid increase of ecology courses being taught at leading universities in the fast growing developing countries much as was the case a decade or two ago in Europe and North America The research presented here is all taken from recent issues of Human Ecology An Interdisciplinary Journal Since the journal itself is a leading forum for contemporary research the articles we have selected represent a cross section of work which brings the perspectives of human ecology to bear on current problems being faced around the world The chapters are organized in such a way to facilitate the use of this volume either to teach a course or to introduce an informed reader to the field

Ocean Ecology J. Emmett Duffy, 2021-08-10 A comprehensive introduction to ocean ecology and a new way of thinking about ocean life Marine ecology is more interdisciplinary broader in scope and more intimately linked to human activities than ever before Ocean Ecology provides advanced undergraduates graduate students and practitioners with an integrated approach to marine ecology that reflects these new scientific realities and prepares students for the challenges of studying and managing the ocean as a complex adaptive system This authoritative and accessible textbook advances a framework based on interactions among four major features of marine ecosystems geomorphology the abiotic environment biodiversity and biogeochemistry and shows how life is a driver of environmental conditions and dynamics Ocean Ecology explains the ecological processes that link organismal to ecosystem scales and that shape the major types of ocean ecosystems historically and in today's Anthropocene world Provides an integrated new approach to understanding and managing the ocean Shows how biological diversity is the heart of functioning ecosystems Spans genes to earth systems surface to seafloor and estuary to ocean gyre Links species composition trait distribution and other ecological structures to the functioning of ecosystems Explains how fishing fossil fuel combustion industrial fertilizer use and other human impacts are transforming the Anthropocene ocean An essential textbook for students and an invaluable resource for practitioners Processual Archaeology Amber Johnson,2004-11-30 Processual archaeologists seek to explain variability in the static archaeological record we observe in the present as a necessary first step toward learning how to learn about the operation of cultural dynamics in the past The approach is a diverse and productive one that focuses on developing learning strategies Researchers pursuing processual archaeology have already discovered a great deal about the archaeological record and about past dynamics and there is a huge potential for building on the foundation laid thus far The contributors to this volume provide clearly written research articles that are easily accessible to upper level undergraduates and professional archaeologists Although the papers do not focus on a single region time period or domain of observation e g settlement patterns or lithics or site structure they are integrated by shared goals for archaeology This book clearly demonstrates that processual archaeology far from having been replaced by post processual archaeology is becoming more and more powerful as our analytic sophistication and knowledge of the archaeological record grow Sociology Thomas J. Sullivan,2004 This book celebrates the achievements of Alice Guy Blach 1873 1968 the first woman motion picture director and producer From 1896 to 1907 she created films for Gaumont in Paris In 1907 she moved to the United States and established her own film company Solax From 1914 to 1920 Guy Blach was an independent director for a number of film companies Despite her immensely productive and creative career Guy Blach s indispensable contribution to film history has been overlooked She entered the world of filmmaking at its nascent stage when films were seen primarily as a medium in the service of science or as an adjunct to selling cameras Working with Gaumont cameramen and cameras and the new technical advances for the projection of film she became one of the film pioneers ushering in the new era of motion pictures as a narrative form Written by cinema history experts and curators this handsome volume brings to light a critical new mass of Guy Blach s film oeuvre in an effort to restore her to her rightful place in film history Biology Ebook Raven,2016-05-16 Biology Ebook EBOOK: Biology Peter Raven,George Johnson,Kenneth Mason,Jonathan Losos,Susan Singer,2013-02-16 Committed to Excellence in the Landmark Tenth Edition This edition continues the evolution of Raven Johnson s Biology The author team is committed to continually improving the text keeping the student and learning foremost We have integrated new pedagogical features to expand the students learning process and enhance their experience in the ebook This latest edition of the text maintains the clear accessible and engaging writing style of past editions with the solid framework of pedagogy that highlights an emphasis on evolution and scientific inquiry that have made this a leading textbook for students majoring in biology and have been enhanced in this landmark Tenth edition This emphasis on the organizing power of evolution is combined with an integration of the importance of cellular molecular biology and genomics to offer our readers a text that is student friendly and current Our author team is committed to producing the best possible text for both student and faculty The lead author Kenneth Mason University of Iowa has taught

Handbook of Road Ecology Rodney van der Ree, Daniel J. Smith, Clara Grilo, 2015-04-02 Winner of the IENE Project Award 2016 This authoritative volume brings together some of the world's leading researchers, academics, practitioners, and transportation agency personnel to present the current status of the ecological sustainability of the linear infrastructure, primarily road, rail, and utility easements that dissect and fragment landscapes globally. It outlines the potential impacts, demonstrates how this infrastructure is being improved, and how broad ecological principles are applied to mitigate the impact of road networks on wildlife. Research and monitoring is an important aspect of road ecology encompassing all phases of a transportation project. This book covers research and monitoring to span the entire project continuum, starting with planning and design through construction and into maintenance and management. It focuses on impacts and solutions for species groups and specific regions with particular emphasis on the unique challenges facing Asia, South America, and Africa. Other key features: Contributions from authors originating from over 25 countries including from all continents. Each chapter summarizes important lessons and includes lists of further reading and thoroughly up-to-date references. Highlights principles that address key points relevant to all phases in all road projects. Explains best practices based on a number of successful international case studies. Chapters are stand-alone but they also build upon and complement each other. Extensive cross-referencing directs the reader to relevant material elsewhere in the book. Handbook of Road Ecology offers a comprehensive summary of approximately 30 years of global efforts to quantify the impacts of roads and traffic and implement effective mitigation. As such, it is essential reading for those involved in the planning, design, assessment, and construction of new roads, the management and maintenance of existing roads, and the modifying or retrofitting of existing roads and problem locations. This handbook is an accessible resource for both developed and developing countries, including government transportation agencies, government environmental conservation agencies, NGOs, and road funding and donor organisations.

Artifact Collective: an attempt to consciousness Nick Stokes, 2019-04-02 ARTIFACT COLLECTIVE is an attempt to create consciousness in a book. You begin. You are trapped in the dark under a great weight. You cannot move. His, her, their, our, your, and my consciousnesses take shape through speculation into your condition. Are you buried alive? Why? Are you alive? Are you accelerating through space in a you-shaped windowless vessel? What is your shape? Are you a flicker of light on the horizon of a black hole? Where is she? Has he lost all he loved? Speculation via thought becomes reality. Including historical, scientific, and found materials and images. ARTIFACT COLLECTIVE is a fictional and non-fictional exploration of quantum theory, cosmology, possible futures, intellectual property, interwoven, presents the commons, the individual, and collective mind, and the self. Population in the Human Sciences Philip Kreager,Bruce Winney,Stanley

Ulijaszek,Cristian Capelli,2015-03-05 The Human Sciences address problems in nature and society that often require coordinated approaches of several scientific disciplines and scholarly research embracing the social and biological sciences and history When we wish for example to understand how some sub populations and not others come to be vulnerable why a disease spreads in one part of a population and not another or which gene variants are transmitted across generations then a remarkable range of disciplinary perspectives need to be brought together from the study of institutional structures cultural boundaries and social networks down to the micro biology of cellular pathways and gene expression The need to explain and address differential impacts of pressing contemporary issues like AIDS ageing social and economic inequalities and environmental change are well known cases in point Population concepts models and evidence lie at the core of approaches to all of these problems if only because accurate differentiation and identification of groups their structures constituents and relations between sub populations are necessary to specify their nature and extent The study of population thus draws both on statistical methodologies of demography and population genetics and sustained observation of the ways in which populations and sub populations are formed maintained or broken up in nature in the laboratory and in society In an era in which research needs to operate on multiple levels population thinking thus provides a common ground for communication and critical thought across disciplines Population in the Human Sciences addresses the need for review and assessment of the framework of interdisciplinary population studies Limitations to prevailing postwar paradigms like the Evolutionary Synthesis and Demographic Transition were becoming evident by the 1970s Subsequent decades have witnessed an immense expansion of population modelling and related empirical inquiry with new genetic developments that have reshaped evolutionary population and developmental biology The rise of anthropological and historical demography and social network analysis are playing major roles in rethinking modern and earlier population history More recently the emergence of sub disciplines like biodemography and evolutionary anthropology and growing links between evolutionary and developmental biology indicate a growing convergence of biological and social approaches to population Human Evolutionary Biology Michael P. Muehlenbein,2010-07-29 Wide ranging and inclusive this text provides an invaluable review of an expansive selection of topics in human evolution variation and adaptability for professionals and students in biological anthropology evolutionary biology medical sciences and psychology The chapters are organized around four broad themes with sections devoted to phenotypic and genetic variation within and between human populations reproductive physiology and behavior growth and development and human health from evolutionary and ecological perspectives An introductory section provides readers with the historical theoretical and methodological foundations needed to understand the more complex ideas presented later Two hundred discussion questions provide starting points for class debate and assignments to test student
