Bin Laden

Justice catches up with 9-11 mastermind after 10 years

It was Euripides, the ancient Greek playwright, who wrote, "The will of the Gods grind slow but they grind exceedingly fine."

The "wills of the Gods," in the person of a U.S. Navy Seal's special operations team, arrived at the doorstep of Osama bin Laden after a 10-year search on Sunday. And they "ground exceedingly fine."

By Monday morning the talking heads on cable networks are hashing over whether Bin Laden's death would actually have any effect on the War on Terrorism or was more symbolic. As usual, they missed the point.

Which is a simple one. It's called justice.

Bin Laden was not a soldier, not a combatant, not even a general commanding an army although he fancied himself all of those, to be sure.

He was simply a criminal, although one on a scale nobody could have imagined prior to the attacks of Sept. 11, 2001.

Most societies, in their own ways, have concepts of justice, that criminals get punished for their crimes and that justice requires more serious punishments for more serious crimes.

Far from being a promoter of a nation, an idea, or even a political movement, Bin Laden had more in common with Timothy McVeigh than with anyone else.

McVeigh blew up babies in their cribs, Bin Laden blew up people having coffee and cinnamon rolls while talking about the Mets' game. Make no mistake about it, both intended the same thing, leaving the innocent politics aside.

Justice was demanded. Justice got there Sunday.

In the days after 9-11, a respected journalistic organization posed the question: "If you got the dream interview, could you ask Osama one question, what would it be?"

The question answered in, dealing with racism, Christianity, religion, philosophy. Finally one person who placed before an American above being a journalist quipped:

"I only want to know one thing from Osama Bin Laden. What are your coordinates?"

Sunday we found out. And so did he. —M.R.

Larry made it from our kitchen sink to the woods

Neighbor Greener saw his neighbor come hanging on his door at 2:30 a.m., but it didn't bother him because he was still up playing his bagpipes.

Grandsons Esten, 10, Will, 8, and Angie, 6, were playing in the driveway at our house on other day when they spotted a turtle (terrapin?) moving ever so slowly onto the drive from the grass, and we were having come out of turtle habitat in the woods.

Will started to do just that, circled it a couple of times, and moved on. "That's a turtle! What if it's a snapping turtle?"

SPOKE TIME DRIVE
Bill Cooke

spent some time admiring it, and then went back to their scooter, bicycle and skateboard course on our long, sloping drive.

Next day, the trio discovered that same terrapin (I think it was the same; they do tend to look alike) on our front sidewalk, having made it half-way across our lawn.

By this time Esten and Will were not bashful about picking up. When I came in from the office, Will informed me that they had rescued the turtle and put it in the kitchen sink in rice-cool water.

Wied Hardware was Cameron landmark

This column continues a series on Cameron historical buildings.

Albert Matucha opened a successful hardware store in Cameron's Dutchess in 1918. The building was owned by Frank Mondrik.

During Matucha's operation of the store the building was damaged by a fire in May, 1920.

Matucha repaired the damaged area using remains of an old dance hall which was divided into two parts and dragged by men to Burn Street.

He continued to run the store until 1928 when he sold it to "Bubba" Wied because the store's owner was ill.

Wied purchased the building from the Mondrik family and operated it until 1938.

The store was known for its stock of hardware, and it was a landmark in the community.

Edward Reynolds, who also worked in the hardware store, was well-known for his work which can still be found around the countryside.

Mrs. Wied continued to run the store until 1938 when she sold it to a new owner.

Country living means fully embracing critters

Retirement four and a half years ago involved moving into a house that not only was in the country, but was perched on a river bank.

The house was on a river bank, and the ground upon concrete and steel pillars that are anchored in more concrete.

Living in such a house means embracing nature and adapting to the changes that come with it.

outdoor. At that time, the trio decided it was time to watch Cartoon Network or to play computer games, so I figured the turtle would soon be a distant memory.

Esten and Will left that afternoon with parents Ken and Christine to go to the beach.

Next morning Noelle brought Angie to the house and a little bit later, Angie's mother, Angie, came to the front sidewalk looking in the bushes.

"What's that down, Angie?" I asked.

"Looking on Larry to come out," he said.

"Do you see him?" I asked.

"Nope. He's probably in these bushes."

Angie gave it a good half hour and then came in the house. I thought he'd find up the Cartoon Network again, and he had.

Esten and Will brought a plastic plate of potato chips and tiny bits of a red hotd dog and Larry got hungry. He also put out some water for him.

By nightfall they hadn't been touched (even by the neighborhood cats or Angie). Dave and Larry had probably long since moved the turtle to the golf course where there were trees for him to hide in.
