Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, supervised, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life of sedentary, middle-aged, obese women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were randomly assigned to either the exercise or control group. The exercise group performed a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, supervised, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program. The control group performed no exercise. The primary outcome was the change in the physical fitness and health-related quality of life. The secondary outcome was the change in the body composition. The results showed that the exercise group had a significant improvement in the physical fitness and health-related quality of life compared to the control group. The exercise group also had a significant improvement in the body composition. The results suggest that a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, supervised, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program can improve the physical fitness and health-related quality of life of sedentary, middle-aged, obese women.
