Mould,2015-03-27 Check out the author s video to find out more about the book <https://vimeo.com/124247409> This book provides a comprehensive critique of the current Creative City paradigm with a capital C and argues for a creative city with a small c via a theoretical exploration of urban subversion The book argues that the Creative City with a capital C is a systemic requirement of neoliberal capitalist urban development and part of the wider policy framework of creativity that includes the creative industries and the creative class and also has inequalities and injustices in built The book argues that the Creative City does stimulate creativity but through a reaction to it not as part of it Creative City policies speak of having mechanisms to stimulate individual collective or civic creativity yet through a theoretical exploration of urban subversion the book argues that to be truly creative is to be radically different from those creative practices that the Creative City caters for Moreover the book analyses the role that urban subversion and subcultures have in the contemporary city in challenging the dominant political economic hegemony of urban creativity Creative activities of people from cities all over the world are discussed and critically analysed to highlight how urban creativity has become co opted for political and economic goals but through a radical reconceptualisation of what creativity is that includes urban subversion we can begin to realise a creative city with a small c Creative Regions in Europe Nick Clifton,Caroline Chapain,Roberta Comunian,2017-10-02 Creative and cultural industries broadly defined are now considered by many policy makers across Europe at the heart of their national innovation and economic development agenda Similarly many European cities and regions have adopted policies to support and develop these industries and their local support infrastructures However this policy making agenda implicitly incorporates and indeed often conflates elements of cultural and creative industries the creative class and so on which are typically employed without due consideration of context Thus a better understanding is required To this end this book features eight research papers split evenly with regard to geographical focus between the UK and continental Europe the latter covering Spain Germany France Luxemburg and Belgium individually and in combination There is also a similar division in terms of those focusing primarily on the policy level the chapters of Clifton and Macaulay Mould and Comunian Pareja Eastaway and Pradel i Miquel Perrin and those of the individual creative actor the chapters of Alfken et al Bennett et al Wedemeier and Brown This book was previously published as a special issue of European Planning Studies Educart CBSE Class 12
