Bernoulli's Principle

What is Bernoulli's Principle?

Bernoulli's principle helps explain how an aircraft can fly by using the forces of lift, drag, thrust, and weight. It states that as the speed of a fluid (such as air) increases, the pressure within the fluid decreases. This means that air moving faster over the top of a wing creates a lower pressure area, which causes the wing to rise.

How does Bernoulli's Principle affect lift?

The shape of the wing is generally flat on the bottom and curved on the top. This causes the air to move faster over the top of the wing and slower underneath. The faster-moving air creates a lower pressure area, while the slower-moving air creates a higher pressure area. This difference in pressure causes the wing to rise.

How does Bernoulli's Principle affect drag?

Drag is the force that opposes the motion of an object through a fluid. It is caused by the friction between the object and the fluid. Bernoulli's principle can be used to explain how the shape of an object can affect drag. For example, a streamlined shape will have less drag than a blunt shape.

Assessment Answer the questions below using evidence from the text.

1. How does Bernoulli's principle affect lift?

2. How does air pressure affect lift?
