Henry,2024-09-05 The general believer waiting for salvation by Jesus hopes to see him appear while living or promptly at death Comfort during loss of life usually portrays those passing now in heaven Conversely the more religiously academic the less one thinks anyone ever goes to heaven Trained scholars typically choose a closed heaven with temporal delays and spatial detours in limitation of God s promises about so great salvation Better typically perceives as a resuscitated flesh on earth that lives by decay of the surrounding creation Hearing word meaning by mapping creation with an old first century option for plural heavens this project reexamines the conversation recommended by the pastor in the letter to the Hebrews about promises regarding the twofold ministry of Christ By analysis with current study tools the conversation both challenges the common academy views and reintroduces a first century hearing option for God s speech concerning prompt postmortem

Christ fulfillment into heaven Listening includes the milk of the beginning teaching requirements for atonement and logic of resurrection to God immediately after death and judgment Hearing senses the solid food about priestly intercession by Jesus after death at judgment to shepherd his believers for salvation into heaven a very little while after individual death and judgment

Framing Refugees Daniel Drewski, Jürgen Gerhards, 2024-07-17 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence It is free to read at Oxford Academic and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations Across the world the number of people forcibly displaced from their homes has more than doubled during the last decade Although international law does not allow states to turn back refugees some countries close their borders to refugees some open their borders and grant extensive protection while others admit some groups of refugees while excluding others How can we make sense of these different responses to admitting refugees In this book Daniel Drewski and Jürgen Gerhards show that governments refugee policy as well as the stance adopted by opposition parties on the issue is heavily dependent on how they frame their country's collective identity on the one hand and the identity and characteristics of the refugees on the other By defining the we and the others politicians draw on collectively shared cultural repertoires which vary by country and by political constituency within a country The book is based on a discourse analysis of parliamentary debates It explores the specific framing of nations identities and the corresponding perceptions of otherness by focusing on six countries that have been confronted with large numbers of refugees Germany Poland and Turkey all responding to the exodus of Syrian and Middle Eastern refugees Chile's reaction to the Venezuelan displacement Singapore and its stance towards Rohingya refugees and Uganda's response to the displacement from South Sudan. The study explores not only differences between governments of different countries but also the conflicting views of different political parties within the same country. Frontiers in the Study of Ancient Plant Remains, 2023-11-16. In the last two decades, plant biology has developed rapidly, ranging from molecular genetics, cell biology and physiology to ecology and evolutionary issues, both for economic species and species unrelated to humans. These topics have received intensive attention; however, there is still a large gap in the study of plant biology in prehistoric times, especially those closely related to humans. The identification of plant species in archaeological sites plays an important role in exploring the paleoenvironment, the origin and spread of agriculture and the relationship between humans and nature. In this research topic, we welcome progress in all aspects of ancient plant fossil research, especially phytoliths, starches, pollen and carbonized seeds, from the mechanisms of plant fossil formation to their phytosystematics and the associated paleoecology and paleoenvironment.

Ecosystem Crises Interactions Merrill Singer, 2021-03-11. Explores the human impacts on environment that lead to serious ecological crises, an innovative resource for students, professionals and researchers alike. Ecosystem Crises: Interaction, Human Health and the Changing Environment provides a timely and innovative framework for understanding how negative human activity impacts the environment and how seemingly disparate factors connect to and magnify hazardous consequences under a changing climate. Presenting a coherent, holistic perspective to the subject, this compelling textbook and reference examines the diverse, often unexpected links that connect our complex world in context of global climate change. The text illustrates how eco-crisis interaction, the synergistic interface of two or more environmental events or pollutants, can multiply to produce harmful health effects that are greater than their additive impact. This concept is highlighted through numerous real and relatable examples, from the use of sediment rock in hydraulic and drinking water filtration systems to the connections between human development and crises such as deforestation, emergent infectious diseases and global food insecurity. Throughout the text, specific examples present opportunities to consider broader questions about the extinction of species, populations and ways of life. Presenting a balanced investigation of the interaction of contemporary ecological dangers, human behavior and health, this unique resource Explores how complex interactions between global warming and anthropogenic impairments magnify the diverse ecological perils and threats facing humans and other species Discusses roadblocks to addressing environmental risk such as global elite polluters the organized denial of climate change and deliberate environmental disruption for financial gain Describes how the production and use of fossil fuels are driving a significant rise in carbon dioxide and other pollutants in the atmosphere and in the oceans Illustrates how industrial production is contributing to an array of environmental crises including fuel spills waste leakages and loss of biodiversity Examines the critical ecosystems that are at risk from interacting stressors of human origin Ecosystem Crises Interaction Human Health and the Changing Environment is an ideal textbook for advanced undergraduate and graduate students in courses including public and allied health environmental studies medical ecology medical anthropology and geo health and a valuable reference for researchers practitioners and policy makers in fields such as environmental health global and planetary health public health climate change and medical social science
