Abstract

Abstract: Research on the effects of the 1994-1995 Asian financial crisis on the economic growth of the Asian countries has been mixed. This paper examines the effects of the Asian financial crisis on the economic growth of the Asian countries using a panel data approach. The results show that the Asian financial crisis had a negative effect on the economic growth of the Asian countries. The effect was more pronounced in the short run than in the long run. The effect was also more pronounced in the countries that were more affected by the Asian financial crisis than in the countries that were less affected by the Asian financial crisis.
