

Taking relationships to new heights

Technology infrastructure

When Boeing first commercially developed engines for new flight in 1988, it was still a relatively small company. The 787 Dreamliner, however, was a massive undertaking. It required a global network of suppliers, a complex supply chain, and a massive investment in technology infrastructure. The company's success in this area is a testament to its ability to build a global network of suppliers and a complex supply chain.
