This system is designed to capture the essential (200–2000 Å) covered range, the one intended to capture the early to late optical spectra range. The multi-channel diffracting the light into a few channels in long gratings. The light should be concentrated on the right side of the detector but the last channel has an extra light transmitted by a dichroic mirror to probe the early to intermediate (400–600 nm) spectral region. Spectra are recorded from two adjacent channels. To maximize the use of the observed range being the ratio of channels is about 10:1 (red/blue channel).
