- 1. Statically indeterminate structures have more unknowns than available equilibrium equations.
 - Statically determinate structures have only as many unknowns as available equilibrium equations.
- 2. Statically determinate structures can be analyzed using only the equations of static equilibrium.
- 3. Statically indeterminate structures require the use of compatibility conditions in addition to the equations of static equilibrium to solve for the unknowns.
 - Statically determinate structures have the same number of unknowns as the available equilibrium equations.
- 4. Statically indeterminate structures require the use of compatibility conditions in addition to the equations of static equilibrium to solve for the unknowns.
 - The compatibility conditions are required to ensure that the structure deforms in a compatible manner.
- 5. Statically indeterminate structures require the use of compatibility conditions in addition to the equations of static equilibrium to solve for the unknowns.
 - The compatibility conditions are required to ensure that the structure deforms in a compatible manner.
- 6. Statically indeterminate structures require the use of compatibility conditions in addition to the equations of static equilibrium to solve for the unknowns.

1. Discuss the factors that influence the success or failure of a business. Consider the following factors: location, management, capital, technology, and competition. How do these factors interact to determine the success or failure of a business?

The system is designed to operate in several 100-2000 Hz ranges only. It can also operate in the audio range at any other points desired. The manufacturer designed the radio to be a vacuum tube type operating. The radio should be converted to an IC radio like it is stated that "The fact doesn't tell us what has happened by a well-known. When the power in the radio is increased, the radio without battery supply can be increased five times without problems. To maximize the life of the circuit, it is best to use the radio continuously in a 100-2000 Hz range only."
