Microbial Responses to Environmental Changes Jürg B. Logue, Stuart E. G. Findlay, Jérôme Comte, 2016-01-20 Advances in next generation sequencing technologies omics and bioinformatics are revealing a tremendous and unsuspected diversity of microbes both at a compositional and functional level Moreover the expansion of ecological concepts into microbial ecology has greatly advanced our comprehension of the role microbes play in the functioning of ecosystems across a wide range of biomes Super imposed on this new information about microbes their functions and how they are organized environmental gradients are changing rapidly largely driven by direct and indirect human activities In the context of global change understanding the mechanisms that shape microbial communities is pivotal to predict microbial responses to novel selective forces and their implications at the local as well as global scale One of the main features of microbial communities is their ability to react to changes in the environment Thus many studies have reported changes in the performance and composition of communities along environmental gradients However the mechanisms underlying these responses remain unclear It is assumed that the response of microbes to changes in the environment is mediated by a complex combination of shifts in the physiological properties single cell activities or composition of communities it may occur by means of physiological adjustments of the taxa present in a community or selecting towards more tolerant better adapted phylotypes Knowing whether certain factors trigger one many or all mechanisms would greatly increase confidence in predictions of future microbial composition and processes This Research Topic brings together studies that applied the latest molecular techniques for studying microbial composition and functioning and integrated ecological biogeochemical and or modeling approaches to provide a comprehensive and mechanistic perspective of the responses of micro organisms to environmental changes This Research Topic presents new findings on environmental parameters influencing microbial communities the type and magnitude of response and differences in the response among microbial groups and which collectively deepen our current understanding and knowledge of the underlying mechanisms of microbial structural and functional responses to environmental changes and gradients in both aquatic and terrestrial ecosystems The body of work has furthermore identified many challenges and questions that yet remain to be addressed and new perspectives to follow up on

Post-Vietnam Dioxin Exposure in Agent Orange-Contaminated C-123 Aircraft Institute of Medicine, Board on the Health of Select Populations, Committee to Evaluate the Potential Exposure to Agent Orange/TCDD Residue and Level of Risk of Adverse Health Effects for Aircrew of Post-Vietnam C-123 Aircraft, 2015-05-20 From 1972 to 1982 approximately 1 500 2 100 US Air Force Reserve personnel trained and worked on C 123 aircraft that had formerly been used to spray herbicides in Vietnam as part of Operation Ranch Hand After becoming aware that some of the aircraft on which they had worked had previously served this purpose some of these AF Reservists applied to the US Department of Veterans Affairs VA for compensatory coverage under the Agent Orange Act of 1991 The Act provides health care and disability coverage for health conditions that have been deemed presumptively service related for herbicide exposure during the Vietnam War The VA denied the applications on the basis that these veterans were ineligible because as non Vietnam era veterans or as Vietnam era veterans without boots on the ground service in Vietnam they were not covered However with the knowledge that some air and wipe samples taken between 1979 and 2009 from some of the C 123s used in Operation Ranch Hand showed the presence of agent orange residues representatives of the C 123 Veterans Association began a concerted effort to reverse VA s position and obtain coverage At the request of the VA Post Vietnam Dioxin Exposure in Agent Orange Contaminated C 123 Aircraft evaluates whether or not service in these C 123s could have plausibly resulted in exposures detrimental to the health of these Air Force Reservists The Institute of Medicine assembled an expert committee to address this question qualitatively but in a scientific and evidence based fashion This report evaluates the reliability of the available information for establishing exposure and addresses and places in context whether any documented residues represent potentially harmful exposure by characterizing the amounts available and the degree to which absorption might be expected Post Vietnam Dioxin Exposure rejects the idea that the dioxin residues detected on interior surfaces of the C 123s were immobile and effectively inaccessible to the Reservists as a source of exposure Accordingly this report states with confidence that the Air Force Reservists were exposed when working in the Operation Ranch Hand C 123s and so experienced some increase in their risk of a variety of adverse responses
