How We Teach Science John L. Rudolph, 2019-06-01 Despite an enduring belief that science should be taught there has been no enduring consensus about how or why This is especially true when it comes to teaching scientific process John Rudolph shows that how we think about and teach science will either sustain or thwart future innovation and determine how science is perceived by the public PISA 2015 Assessment and Analytical Framework Science, Reading, Mathematic and Financial Literacy OECD, 2016-04-19 What is important for citizens to know and be able to do The OECD Programme for International Student Assessment PISA seeks to answer that question through the most comprehensive and rigorous international assessment of student knowledge and skills PISA 2015 Assessment and Analytical Framework Science, Reading, Mathematic, Financial Literacy and Collaborative Problem Solving OECD, 2017-08-31 What is important for citizens to know and be able to do The OECD Programme for International Student Assessment PISA seeks to answer that question through the most comprehensive and rigorous international assessment of student knowledge and skills Explanatory Models, Unit Standards, and Personalized Learning in Educational Measurement William P. Fisher Jr., Paula J. Massengill, 2022-10-15 The papers by Jack Stenner included in this book document the technical details of an art and science of measurement that creates new entrepreneurial business opportunities Jack brought theory instruments and data together in ways that are applicable not only in the context of a given test of reading or mathematics ability but which more importantly catalyzed literacy and numeracy capital in new fungible expressions Though Jack did not reflect in writing on the inferential constructive processes in which he engaged much can be learned by reviewing his work with his accomplishments in mind A Foreword by Stenner's colleague and co author on multiple works William P Fisher Jr provides key clues concerning a how Jack's understanding of measurement and its values aligns with social and historical studies of science and technology and b how recent developments in collaborations of psychometricians and metrologists are building on and expanding Jack's accomplishments This is an open access book Breaking Point Rebecca Schwartz Greene, 2023-01-03 WINNER SOCIETY FOR MILITARY HISTORY DISTINGUISHED BOOK AWARDS FIRST BOOK This book informs the public for the first time about the impact of American psychiatry on soldiers during World War II Breaking Point is the first in depth history of American psychiatry in World War II Drawn from unpublished primary documents oral histories and the author's personal interviews and correspondence over years with key psychiatric and military policymakers it begins with Franklin Roosevelt's endorsement of a universal Selective Service psychiatric examination followed by Army and Navy pre and post induction examinations Ultimately 2.5 million men and women were rejected or discharged from military service on neuropsychiatric grounds Never before or since has the United States engaged in such a program In designing Selective Service Medical Circular No 1 psychiatrist Harry Stack Sullivan assumed psychiatrists could predict who might break down or falter in military service or even in civilian life thereafter While many American and European psychiatrists questioned this belief and huge numbers of American psychiatric casualties soon raised questions about screening's validity. Psychiatric and military leaders persisted in 1942 and 1943 in endorsing ever tougher screening and little else. Soon families complained of fathers and teens being drafted instead of being identified as psychiatric 4Fs. Blacks and Native Americans among others complained of bias. A frustrated General George S. Patton famously slapped two malingering neuropsychiatric patients in Sicily, a sentiment shared by Marshall and Eisenhower though they favored a tamer style. Yet psychiatric rejections, evacuations and discharges mounted. While psychiatrist Roy Grinker and a few others treated soldiers close to the front in Tunisia in early 1943, this was the exception. But as demand for manpower soared and psychiatrists finally went to the field and saw that combat itself, not predisposition, precipitated breakdown, leading military psychiatrists switched their emphasis from screening to prevention and treatment. But this switch was too little, too late and slowed by a year-long series of Inspector General investigations, even while numbers of psychiatric casualties soared. Ironically, despite and even partly because of psychiatrists' wartime performance plus the emotional toll of war, postwar America soon witnessed a dramatic growth in numbers, popularity and influence of the profession, culminating in the National Mental Health Act 1946. But veterans with PTSD, not recognized until 1980, were largely neglected.

Woodrow Wilson Edwin A. Weinstein, 2014-07-14

Throughout this narrative, the author combines the historical material with an expert understanding of Wilson's ailments to point out ways in which the state of his health changed the course of national and international events. Originally published in 1981, The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print-on-demand technology to again make available previously out-of-print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press. These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions. The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905.

An Incurable Academic Torsten Husen, 2014-05-20

In these memoirs, Torsten Husen, Professor Emeritus of Education at the University of Stockholm, conveys a fascinating picture of the academic world from the 1940s onwards and of the extraordinary developments in education and psychology. Professor Husen is an internationally acknowledged expert on school affairs. As the first holder of the Chair of Educational Research at the Stockholm School of Education, he became deeply involved in policy research tied to the school reforms, and his research and writing have directly affected the worldwide debate on the structure and content of secondary and upper secondary schooling. He was a founder member of the International Association for the Evaluation of Educational Achievement (IEA) and as Chairman of the Board of the International Institute for Education Planning (IIEP) in Paris, he became increasingly concerned with educational problems in the developing countries. This is an account of a remarkable man whose dedication to research into educational problems worldwide should be an inspiration to others.
