 Emotion Cognition Interactions in Clinical Conditions As illustrated by the present collection of contributions emotion cognition interactions can be identified at different levels of processing from perception and attention to long term memory decision making processes and social cognition and behavior Notably these effects are subject to individual differences that may affect the way we perceive experience and remember emotional experiences or cope with emotionally challenging situations Moreover these opposing effects tend to co occur in affective disorders such as depression and PTSD where uncontrolled recollection of and rumination on distressing memories also lead to impaired cognition due to emotional distraction Understanding the nature and neural mechanisms of these effects is critical as their exacerbation and co occurrence in clinical conditions lead to devastating effects and debilitation Hence bringing together such diverse contributions has allowed not only an integrative understanding of the current extant evidence but also identification of emerging directions and concrete venues for future investigations Parliamentary Debates (Hansard). Great Britain.
