Child Care Work Adele Stewart,University of Western Australia. School of Sport Science, Exercise and Health,2009 Truncated abstract Manual handling is a duty inherent to child care Whether it is domestic or occupational the manual handling work involved in caring for young children doesn t differ The lifting and handling of young children and interaction with infant nursery equipment and children s furniture is relentless General manual handling MH work is associated with higher than normal levels of musculoskeletal disorder MSD Occupational health and work safety OHS practices have been created to identify assess and minimise injury risk to workers The key variables taken into account are the characteristics of the loads equipment job design and the anthropometry and ability of those doing the work Although there is no apparent lack of OHS regulations applied to child care work unusually high rates of MSD continue to be reported Owen 1992 Bright King et al 2006 with lower back injury LBI being the main contributor Brown Gerbrick 1993 The exceptionally high rates of injury for workers employed in child care the majority of whom are female exposes an implication of injury risk to women caring for young children in the domestic environment Many of these women in domestic child care will be pregnant or postpartum and as such likely to already have some LBI or transient physical disability Pheasant 1986 Past studies of MH in child care have observed likely implications for LBI from lifting children and interaction with equipment but to date there has been no biomechanical analysis or objective measurement of the tasks or the components That being said lifting children is not a standardised activity and therefore difficult to measure Nappy changing however is one MH child care task that is performed frequently and includes variables that are quantifiable The aim of this research was to establish an understanding of the complexities involved in nappy changing and to explore the biomechanical risk hazards for LBI Due to the significant number of women involved in domestic child care and occupational MH work this study has implications for the child care environment as well as the broader workplace

Practices in Children's Nursing E-Book Ethel Trigg,Toby Mohammed,Louise Ford,Hermione Montgomery,Vicky Vidler,2010-06-17 The skills required by children s nurses are many and varied and are undertaken in a variety of settings Sick children are cared for at home in children s units and hospitals and sometimes in adult wards In addition children with disabilities may need nursing care while at special schools or in residential settings This book provides a clinical manual of common practices Each practice is research based and presented in a common format which covers Objectives Rationale Factors to note Guidelines Positioning Equipment Method Special observations and possible complications References and further reading The guidelines have been written specifically for children s nursing by contributors from well known children s units They are not simply adaptations from adult practices and therefore recognise the unique differences between adult and children s nursing The introductory section covers common concepts and infection control There is also a chapter on complementary therapies and an appendix on the use of play as a distraction All hospital and community nurses dealing with children whether at home in specialised units or in community settings will find the book of great practical help The common format of each practice makes the book easy to use and refer to in a clinical setting Each practice is based on the latest research to ensure it is evidence based and up to date Introductory chapters cover issues common to all practices to make the book easier to use The appendix on play reinforces its common usage as a distraction technique A chapter on complementary therapies explains these as they are becoming more widespread All practices have been reviewed by regional centres to avoid parochialism Content reorganised to reflect the Essential Skills Clusters from the NMC New chapter on communicating with children All chapters updated to reflect the current evidence base
