CORN CHRONICLES

THE JOURNEY FROM PLATE TO POOP

How the Digestive System Works

The digestive system is a complex network of organs that work together to break down food into nutrients that the body can use. It starts in the mouth, where food is chewed and mixed with saliva. The food then travels down the esophagus to the stomach, where it is broken down into smaller pieces. From the stomach, the food moves into the small intestine, where it is further broken down and nutrients are absorbed. The remaining waste moves into the large intestine, where it is eventually eliminated from the body.

Breaking Down is Hard to Do

While the digestive system is designed to break down food, it can sometimes have trouble. For example, if you eat too much food or eat food that is hard to digest, you may experience indigestion or heartburn. These symptoms are caused by the stomach producing too much acid or the food not moving through the digestive system properly. Eating a healthy diet and drinking plenty of water can help keep your digestive system working smoothly.

Let's Process This

Now that you know how the digestive system works, you can make better choices about what you eat. Eating a variety of fruits, vegetables, and whole grains can help keep your digestive system healthy. You should also drink plenty of water and avoid eating too much food at one time. By taking care of your digestive system, you can keep yourself feeling healthy and happy.
