Cooper,2013-10-18 Secularism is usually thought to contain the project of self deification in which humans attack God s authority in order to take his place freed from all constraints Julie E Cooper overturns this conception through an incisive analysis of the early modern justifications for secular politics While she agrees that secularism is a means of empowerment she argues that we have misunderstood the sources of secular empowerment and the kinds of strength to which it aspires Contemporary understandings of secularism Cooper contends have been shaped by a limited understanding of it as a shift from vulnerability to power But the works of the foundational thinkers of secularism tell a different story Analyzing the writings of Hobbes Spinoza and Rousseau at the moment of secularity s inception she shows that all three understood that acknowledging one s limitations was a condition of successful self rule And while all three invited humans to collectively build and sustain a political world their invitations did not amount to self deification Cooper establishes that secular politics as originally conceived does not require a choice between power and vulnerability Rather it challenges us today as then to reconcile them both as essential components of our humanity      English Novel in History, 1895-1920 David Trotter,2003-10 Written especially for students and assuming no prior knowledge of the subject this book aims to provide a comprehensive introduction to early 20th century fiction

Striding Both Worlds Melissa Kennedy,2011-01-01 Striding Both Worlds illuminates European influences in the fiction of Witi Ihimaera Aotearoa New Zealand s foremost M ori writer in order to question the common interpretation of M ori writing as displaying a distinctive M ori world view and literary style Far from being discrete endogenous units all cultures and literatures arise out of constant interaction engagement and even friction Thus M ori culture since the 1970s has been shaped by a long history of interaction with colonial British Pakeha and other postcolonial and indigenous cultures M ori sovereignty and renaissance movements have harnessed the structures of European modernity nation building and more recently Western global capitalism transculturation and diaspora contexts which contest New Zealand bicultural identity encouraging M ori to express their difference and self sufficiency Ihimaera s fiction has been largely viewed as embodying the specific values of M ori renaissance and biculturalism However Ihimaera in his techniques modes and themes is indebted to a wider range of literary influences than national literary critique accounts for In taking an international literary perspective this book draws critical attention to little known or disregarded aspects such as Ihimaera s love of opera the extravagance of his baroque lyricism his exploration of fantasy and his increasing interest in taking M ori into the global arena In revealing a broad range of cultural and aesthetic influences and inter references commonly seen as irrelevant to contemporary M ori literature Striding Both Worlds argues for a hitherto frequently overlooked and undervalued depth and complexity to Ihimaera s imaginary The present study argues that an emphasis on difference tends to lose sight of fiction s capacity to appreciate originality and individuality in the polyphony of its very form and function In effect literary negotiation of M ori sovereign space takes place in its forms rather than in its content the uniqueness of M ori literature is found in the way it uses the common tools of literary fiction including language imagery the text s relationship to reality and the function of characterization By interpreting aspects of Ihimaera s oeuvre for what they share with other literatures in English Striding Both Worlds aims to present an additional complementary approach to M ori New Zealand and postcolonial literary analysis

Yearning for (Dis)Connections Hassan Yosimbom, 2023-09-30 In a nuanced consideration of the Cameroonian experience Yearning for Dis Connections makes critical interventions into debates about coexistence citizenship identity formation and performance democracy and modernity in Cameroon The essays in the book ranges across Francophone and Anglophone Cameroons to provide a challenging assessment of the common ways of writing and thinking for and of and about the Cameroonian world The book criticises the blinders of Cameroon s Francophonecentred leadership analysing its failure to heed Anglophone Cameroon s ontological and epistemological critiques of Cameroon s ongoing exclusions masked by pretences of a Francophone universalism Yosimbom uses the works of Nyamnjoh Ndi Besong and Takwi to explore how Cameroonian worlds are on the move of and for identity negotiations He also explores how the uneven development of those Cameroonian worlds has been creating growing gaps within and among regions while at the same time Francophonising Anglophones and Anglophonising Francophones through four fold processes of complementarities continuity and discontinuity diachrony and synchrony The book demonstrates that persistent Francophone hegemony and resurgent Anglophone nationalism often fail to realise that all Cameroonians have been shuffled like a pack of cards that cultures are formed through complex dialogues and interactions with other cultures that the boundaries of cultures are fluid porous and contested that identities are multiple and layered in complex pluralist democratic societies and that there is need for public recognition of cultural and identity specificities in ways that do not deny their fluidity nimbleness and incompleteness
