Continuity: The trend, as seen above, is not repeated in later city council elections, especially in 1980. In 1980, the "reform" and the "status quo" parties have faded, and were replaced by the Democratic Party and the Republican Party. In 1980, the "reform" and the "status quo" parties were replaced by the Democratic Party and the Republican Party. In 1980, the "reform" and the "status quo" parties were replaced by the Democratic Party and the Republican Party.

These authors also found that the use of a single word, such as "good", to describe a person's behavior was more likely to be associated with a positive evaluation of that person's behavior than the use of a single word, such as "bad", to describe a person's behavior. This finding is consistent with the idea that people are more likely to use a single word to describe a person's behavior when they are in a positive mood than when they are in a negative mood.
