monograph discloses the specific Belgian contribution to the genre in close connection with the singularities of the Belgian women s and general magazines where these photonovels appeared If the photonovel is generally considered a typically French or Italian genre this study demonstrates the importance of a different tradition which appropriated the foreign models in a very original way Belgian photonovels are distinct not only because they tell other kinds of stories but also because they interact with other types of magazines in ways that are very different from the mainstream forms of the genre in Italy and France Finally this lavishly illustrated study is also the first in scrutinizing the technical aspects of magazine printing techniques in the development of the photonovel Journal des missions évangéliques Département Évangélique
