

Comprehension and Discussion Activities for the Movie

Hotel Rwanda

This module has been designed to accompany the film Hotel Rwanda (2004).

Hotel Rwanda is based on real characters and events that took place in Rwanda in 1994.

Tension between Hutu and Tutsi ethnic groups reached a crisis point in that year, when Rwandan radio announced that May 5 was to be the 'cleanup day'. On that day the capital, Kigali, must be cleansed of Tutsis. Nearly one million people were killed by Hutu militia shortly after this announcement. Hotel Rwanda is a film about this event.

Hotel Rwanda is also about Paul Rusesabagina, who made the hotel he managed into a refugee camp. This single daring act allowed thousands to survive.

The module consists of teacher's notes and two handouts that you can copy and give to your students. If you don't have access to a copier, you can write these on the board.

You might like to do many of these activities in students' first language. It is important that they understand the ideas behind the story, and this is easier in their own language.

Yet? Reinhold Kramer, 2019-11-08 In this book Reinhold Kramer explores a variety of important social changes including the resistance to objective measures of truth the rise of How I Feel ethics the ascendancy of individualism the immersion in cyber simulations the push toward globalization and multilateralism and the decline of political and religious faiths He argues that the displacement since the 1990s of grand narratives by ego based narratives and small narratives has proven inadequate and that selective adherence pluralist adaptation and humanism are more worthy replacements Relying on evolutionary psychology as much as on Charles Taylor Kramer argues that no single answer is possible to the book title's question but that the term postmodernity referring to the era not to postmodernism still usefully describes major currents within the contemporary world

Representing Genocide Rebecca Jinks, 2016-06-02 This book explores the diverse ways in which Holocaust representations have influenced and structured how other genocides are understood and represented in the West Rebecca Jinks focuses in particular on the canonical 20th century cases of genocide Armenia Cambodia Bosnia and Rwanda Using literature film photography and memorialisation she demonstrates that we can only understand the Holocaust's status as a benchmark for other genocides if we look at the deeper structural resonances which subtly shape many representations of genocide Representing Genocide pursues five thematic areas in turn how genocides are recognised as such by western publics the representation of the origins and perpetrators of genocide how western witnesses represent genocide representations of the aftermath of genocide and western responses to genocide Throughout the book distinguishes between mainstream and other more nuanced and engaged representations of genocide It shows how these mainstream representations the majority largely replicate the representational framework of the Holocaust including the way in which mainstream Holocaust representations resist recognising the rationality instrumentality and normality of genocide preferring instead to present it as an aberrant exceptional event in human society By contrast the more engaged representations often but not always originating from those who experienced genocide tend to revolve around precisely genocide's ordinariness and the structures and situations common to human society which contribute to and become involved in the violence

Human Rights in Europe during the Cold War Rasmus Mariager, Karl Molin, Kjersti Brathagen, 2014-06-05 This book provides an overview of the establishment dispersion and effects of human rights in Europe during the Cold War The struggle for human rights did not begin at the end of the Second World War For centuries political associations religious societies and individuals had been fighting for political freedom religious tolerance freedom of expression freedom of thought and the right to participate in politics However the world was awakened by the atrocities of the Second World War and the idea that every person should have certain perpetual and inalienable rights was set out in The Universal Declaration of Human Rights UDHR from 1948 which contained an enumeration of international human rights standards Adopting an interpretative framework which pulls together universal ideas values and principles of human rights Human Rights in Europe during the Cold War demonstrates how conflicting interests collided when the exact meaning of human rights was established It also discusses various approaches to the idea of imposing respect for human rights in countries where they were systematically violated and assesses the outcome of international accords on human rights in particular the 1975 Helsinki Final Act In conclusion this volume proposes that human rights functioned as moral support to the opposition in repressive regimes and that this was subsequently used as a tool to further system changes Based on new archival research this book will be of much interest to students of Cold War studies human rights European history international law and IR in general

Writing in Film Studies, from Professional Practice to Practical Pedagogy Bryan Mead, 2024-01-09 A common refrain heard from instructors in offices across the world is that students have a hard time producing quality written discourse This is no different in the world of film studies where many undergraduate students struggle to cogently discuss the films they watch in class How can film instructors help students become better writers This book answers this question by first uncovering the disciplinary expectations we have for students and then offering strategies to explicitly teach those expectations in the classroom This book examines and identifies the disciplinary conventions of professional film studies discourse along with the expectations we have for student writing in undergraduate film courses What becomes clear from this analysis is that the pedagogical expectations we have for students are aligned with and shaped by professional writing in the discipline It helps to uncover the argument types instructors take for granted and helps those teaching undergraduate students not only to know what those expectations are but also how to use that knowledge to foster better student writing
