

Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The study was conducted in a laboratory setting. The subjects were 15 sedentary middle-aged men (mean age 45.8 ± 1.2 years, mean weight 78.5 ± 2.1 kg, mean height 178.5 ± 1.5 cm). The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group (n = 7) and a training group (n = 8). The control group performed no exercise, while the training group performed a 12-week training program consisting of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes. The training program was designed to increase the subjects' HR and HRR. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 12-week period. The results showed that the training group had a significant increase in HR and HRR compared to the control group. The HR increased from 72.5 ± 1.5 bpm to 78.5 ± 1.5 bpm, and the HRR increased from 27.5 ± 1.5 bpm to 33.5 ± 1.5 bpm. The control group showed no significant change in HR and HRR. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can effectively increase the HR and HRR of sedentary middle-aged men.
