This system is designed to capture the essential (200–2000 Å) covered range, the one intended to capture the really big bang optical emission lines. The multi-channel diffracting the light into a few channels in long gratings. They will provide the comprehensive set of spectra that is obtained here. The last channel has an extra light transmitted by a dichroic mirror to the grating in the red to blue range. The light is filtered and then sent to the detector by the second lens and the grating. The light is then sent to the detector by the second lens and the grating. The light is then sent to the detector by the second lens and the grating.
