- THE 2008 BUDGET will have a significant impact on the way in which the Government will be able to fund the NHS. The Government has announced that it will be introducing a new health tax, which will be levied on the top 10% of earners. This will be a significant source of revenue for the NHS, and will help to fund the new health services that will be introduced in the coming years.

- Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the physical and psychological health of older adults. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The participants were 60 older adults (mean age = 72.5 years) who were randomly assigned to either a walking program or a control group. The walking program consisted of 12 weeks of supervised walking, 3 times per week, for 30 minutes per session. The control group did not participate in any walking program. The participants were assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks. The walking program had a significant positive effect on the physical and psychological health of the older adults. The walking program significantly improved the participants' physical health, as measured by the 6-minute walk test, the 10-meter walk test, and the Timed Up-and-Go test. The walking program also significantly improved the participants' psychological health, as measured by the Geriatric Depression Scale and the Geriatric Anxiety Inventory. The walking program was well-tolerated by the participants, and there were no adverse events reported. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program can improve the physical and psychological health of older adults.
