Last Lorry to Mbordo John C. Kennedy, 2006-04-04 Is it possible that a nation's ability to make peace is more important than its ability to make war Will we reach a point in the history of humanity when survival depends on the skills of peace making and not war Is it possible in some far future time we will come to understand that what really mattered in the history of a nation's life was not its ability to make war but its ability to make peace We are just starting on this process of learning how to make peace In war outcomes are seldom predictable and true consequences are known if ever only years afterwards The outcomes of our tentative efforts to make peace seem even less predictable No nation can match the United States in good intentions But results are all too often the opposite of what we intended This novel is about living and working in West Africa It is set in the country of Sakra It is not a sociological tract nor is it fantasy The protagonists are fictional but the situations in which they find themselves are similar to those that might be encountered by volunteer teachers in any one of the new nations of West Africa The story line revolves about three dominant themes that correspond roughly to the early middle and latter chapters of the book The first of these themes is the manner in which outsiders adjust to and develop a sense of their role in a foreign culture Alice a lady of 62 Peace Corps volunteer and retired from the Washington D C public schools is the focus of the first part of the novel She is assigned to teach Mathematics at the University College of Mbordo Her struggle to adjust survive and learn to enjoy living in West Africa is a study in strength and perseverance Other protagonists are introduced at first only as incidental to Alice's often traumatic journey from alienation to a level of mutual human acceptance In the middle chapters the story line shifts away from Alice's problems to the second major theme of interaction not only between foreigners and Sakraians but also among the ethnic groups of the nation of Sakra itself The problems of life in Sakra for Africans stand out in stark contrast to the problems that Alice and other expatriates have in adjusting to life in West Africa Civil strife in Sakra intensifies this contrast Questions of adjustment become a good deal less significant when survival itself is in question The dominant theme of the final chapters is the manner in which events beyond the control of the protagonists lead to personal and public crisis that place them in situations that become tests of character and belief textbooks on oceanography and hydrographic surveying but his most significant contribution was to demonstrate the vital role of the past as the basis for the development of contemporary naval thought culminating in the publication of his seminal Essay on Naval Tactics in 1873. The material in this volume all dates from after 1875 following the College's move to the old Hospital complex at Greenwich in 1873 which gave Laughton access to a wider audience in London notably as the College's official academic spokesman at the United Services Institution. It was his 1874 Royal United Services Institution Lecture The Scientific Study of Naval History which established history as the basis for doctrine development and secured a place for the subject in the Naval College curriculum. Laughton left the College in 1885 to become Professor of Modern History at King's College London where he made a significant contribution to the professionalisation of English history as well as writing more than 900 lives virtually the entire naval component for the Dictionary of National Biography. The audience for his lectures, articles and books included the entire officer corps of the Royal Navy of his day together with army officers, defence analysts and major American thinkers such as Admiral Stephen Luce and Captain Alfred T. Mahan, the last two being two of the most frequently represented correspondents in this volume. Laughton and Mahan worked together for two decades to advance the cause of naval education, strategic thought and history. Edited by his biographer, the first Laughton Professor of Naval History at King's College London, the papers are grouped chronologically into six chapters: The Scientific Study of Naval History 1875-85, Professor of Modern History 1885-90, The Navy Records Society 1891-95, Fighting for Nelson 1896-1900, Working to the End 1901-15 and Laughton's Unfinished Naval History of England. They show how Laughton in a career extending from the Crimean War to the First World War advanced naval history as a fundamental intellectual resource for two great navies and laid the foundations for its present place at the heart of the historical profession.

The Ranger: The Fight Back Begins Lee Smith, 2014-01-13. Arlingston, a town in chaos, the streets are overrun by the gangs and the schools are controlled by the thugs. The law fails as the crime rate rockets and the drug abuse escalates. In a town torn apart by gang wars where hope is just a word and danger is all around, this story follows a troubled outcast, a delinquent, stubborn, womanising teenager called Luke Sanders who vows to turn his life around and help his friends stand up against the ruthless bullies and thugs that unleash terror and prey on the weak and the vulnerable. When Luke sees his friends suffer at the hands of the gangs, he sets out to fight back, not only as himself but as a vigilante known as the Ranger, taking on the underworld that delves in drugs, blackmail and murder. As the battle ignites, a mysterious crime lord emerges, thrusting Luke and his friends into a world of anarchy. Yet the town of Arlingston finds that bit of hope in Luke Sanders, the Ranger, for the fight back against the armies of the night is set to begin.
