Two-Point Fast-Hitch with Traction Control.

Two-Point Fast-Hitch with Traction Control provides a fast and convenient means of attaching rear-mounted implements. Traction control utilizes the draft or pull of the implement to apply down pressure on the rear wheels and reduce slippage. It also adds to the flexibility afforded by the combination of Hydra-Touch and Hydraulic Remote Control.

Coupling, uncoupling, depth control, traction control, and leveling of implements all can be done from the tractor seat. Other adjustments as outlined on the following pages are available to the operator.

The operation and appearance of both Fast-Hitch attachments is the same on all tractor models listed but the units are not interchangeable due to the difference in the width of the rear frames of the tractors.

Fast-Hitch has reduced the attachment of implements to the tractor to a simple "line-up, back up, and go" procedure. It is the quickest and easiest way to hitch implements ever devised. The operator remains on the tractor seat and backs in with the socket latches of the hitch either open or closed.

Coupling is automatically completed on contact, hydraulic power raises the implement from the ground, and the operator drives off to the work area. Practically all of the manual labor previously required for attaching implements has been eliminated. Fast-Hitch permits the operator to have maximum time for work in the field, where his profit is made.

The Fast-Hitch consists of a simple bail, with a hinged socket at each end, suspended under the tractor from a rockshaft. The bell-mouthed sockets receive a pair of coupling beams on the implement. The beams on all Fast-Hitch implements have the same shape and spacing. The bail therefore provides a common hitch-frame for all implements.

Most controls are built into the hitch rather than on each implement. The Fast-Hitch mounting frame is common for all implements and remains on the tractor. This practically eliminates the need for separate, special pieces formerly required for each implement. This, in turn, keeps the customer's initial investment to a minimum.

Flexibility of the Fast-Hitch and versatility of controls assures top quality work from every implement. Field performance is not sacrificed for ease and speed of hitching. The Fast-Hitch can be made rigid or free-floating, horizontally, vertically, or in both directions. Raising and lowering the implement is accomplished with a hydraulic cylinder. Depth adjustment is controlled by use of an adjustable stop on the Tel-A-Depth quadrant.

Traction control is accomplished entirely by mechanical means. A linkage system operated by the draft load causes the cylinder to apply an upward thrust on the rockshaft. The reaction of this force puts additional weight on the rear wheels of the tractor thus reducing wheel slippage. As the operator lifts up on the traction control handle, loading of the rear wheels is increased. In all settings, except the first or top notch, of the traction control handle, the amount of weight transferred to the rear wheels increases in direct proportion to the draft load, thus increasing traction only as needed.

A skip-in type drawbar, furnished as regular equipment with the Fast-Hitch, is quickly and easily attached when trailing implements are to be used.
