GETTING STARTED

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact aerobically based exercise program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The program was designed to be a safe and effective means of improving cardiovascular fitness and overall health. The results of the study showed that the program was effective in improving cardiovascular fitness, as measured by heart rate and blood pressure, and in improving psychological health, as measured by self-reported mood and stress levels. The program was also found to be safe and well-tolerated by the participants.
