Multimodality And Active Listenership A Corpus Approach Dawn Knight:

Multimodality and Active Listenership Dawn Knight, 2011-10-13 Current corpora are invaluable resources for generating accurate and objective analyses of patterns of language use. However, spoken corpora are effectively mono-modal, presenting data in the same physical medium: text. The reality of a discourse situation is lost in its representation as text. Using multimodal data sets when conducting corpus-based pragmatic analyses is one solution. This book looks at multimodal corpora in some depth, using backchanneling as the conversational feature to be analysed. It provides a bottom-up investigation of the issues and challenges faced at every stage of multimodal corpus construction and analysis, as well as providing an in-depth linguistic analysis of a cross-section of multimodal corpus data. The collaborative and co-operative nature of backchannels is highlighted in this book, and an adapted pragmatic functional linguistic coding matrix for the characterisation of backchanneling phenomena is presented. Dawn Knight also looks at possible directions in the construction and use of multimodal corpus linguistics.

Web As Corpus Maristella Gatto, 2014-02-13 Is the internet a suitable linguistic corpus? How can we use it in corpus techniques? What are the special properties that we need to be aware of? This book answers those questions. The Web is an exponentially increasing source of language and corpus linguistics data. From gigantic static information resources to user-generated Web 2.0 content, the breadth and depth of information available is breathtaking and bewildering. This book explores the theory and practice of the web as corpus. It looks at the most common tools and methods used and features a plethora of examples based on the author's own teaching experience. This book also bridges the gap between studies in computational linguistics which emphasize technical aspects and studies in corpus linguistics which focus on the implications for language theory and use.

Corpus Stylistics in Heart of Darkness and its Italian Translations Lorenzo Mastropierro, 2017-11-16 This book explores the interaction between corpus stylistics and translation studies It shows how corpus methods can be used to compare literary texts to their translations through the analysis of Joseph Conrad's Heart of Darkness and four of its Italian translations The comparison focuses on stylistic features related to the major themes of Heart of Darkness By combining quantitative and qualitative techniques Mastropierro discusses how alterations to the original's stylistic features can affect the interpretation of the themes in translation The discussion illuminates the manipulative effects that translating can have on the reception of a text showing how textual alterations can trigger different readings This book advances the multidisciplinary dialogue between corpus linguistics and translation studies and is a valuable resource for students and researchers interested in the application of corpus approaches to stylistics and translation

The Prosody of Formulaic Sequences Phoebe Lin, 2018-09-20 To apply the same approaches to analysing spoken and written formulaic language is problematic to do so masks the fact that the contextual meaning of spoken formulaic language is encoded to a large extent in its prosody In The Prosody of Formulaic Sequences Phoebe Lin offers a new perspective on formulaic language arguing that while past research often treats formulaic language as a lexical phenomenon the phonological aspect of it is a more fundamental facet This book draws its conclusions from three original empirical studies of spoken formulaic language assessing intonation unit boundaries as well as features such as tempo and stress placement Across all studies Lin considers questions of methodology and conceptual framework The corpus based descriptions of prosody outlined in this book not only deepen our understanding of the nature of formulaic language but have important implications for English Language Teaching and automatic speech synthesis

Sadness Expressions in English and Chinese Ruihua Zhang, 2014-09-25 Winner of the Tianjin Social Science Outstanding Achievement Award This book reports on the contrastive semantic investigation of sadness expressions between English and Chinese based on two monolingual general corpora and a parallel corpus The exploration adopts a unique theoretical approach which integrates corpus linguistic theories on meaning as a social construct usage and paraphrase with a corpus linguistic lexical model It employs a new complex but workable methodology which combines computational tools with manual examination to tease meaning out of corpus evidence to compare and contrast lexical items that do not match up neatly between languages It looks at sadness expressions both within and across languages in terms of three corpus linguistic structural categories i.e. colligation, collocation and semantic association preference and paraphrase both explicit and implicit to capture their subtle nuances of meaning, disclose the culture specific conceptualisations encoded in them and highlight their respective cultural distinctiveness of emotion. By presenting multidisciplinary original work, Sadness Expressions in English and Chinese will be of interest to researchers in corpus linguistics, contrastive lexical semantics, psychology, bilingual lexicography and language pedagogy.

Keywords in the Press: The New Labour Years Lesley Jeffries, Brian Walker, 2017-11-16 Building on Raymond Williams' iconic Keywords released in 1975, Jeffries and Walker show how some pivotal words significantly increased in use and evolved in meaning during the years of the New Labour project. Focussing on print news media, this book establishes a set of socio-political keywords for the Blair Years and demonstrates how their evolving meanings are indicative of the ideological landscape in Britain at that time and the extent to which the cultural hegemony of the New Labour project influenced the language of the commentariat. Combining corpus linguistic approaches with critical stylistics, the authors conduct an analysis of two newspaper corpora using computational tools. Looking closely at textually constructed meanings within the data, their investigation of the keywords has a qualitative focus and sets out a clear methodology for combining corpus approaches with systematic co-textual analysis.
