Process flow

SPC introduction

Statistical process control (SPC) is a quality control system that uses statistical methods to monitor and control a process. The goal of SPC is to ensure that a process is producing products that meet the requirements of the customer. SPC is a continuous process that involves collecting data, analyzing the data, and taking corrective action when necessary. SPC is a key component of a quality management system (QMS) and is used in a wide range of industries, including manufacturing, healthcare, and service industries.
