

Quiz: Understanding Statistical Concepts

Time: 10 min

Question 1: Understanding Statistical Concepts

1. A bar chart displays the number of students who passed or failed a math exam. The x-axis represents the outcome (Pass/Fail) and the y-axis represents the number of students. The chart shows that 15 students passed and 10 students failed. Which of the following statements is true?

- A. The number of students who passed is greater than the number of students who failed.
- B. The number of students who passed is equal to the number of students who failed.
- C. The number of students who passed is less than the number of students who failed.
- D. The number of students who passed is not equal to the number of students who failed.

Correct Answer: A The number of students who passed (15) is greater than the number of students who failed (10).

Explanation: According to the bar chart, the number of students who passed the exam is 15, and the number of students who failed the exam is 10. Since 15 is greater than 10, the number of students who passed is greater than the number of students who failed. Therefore, the correct answer is A. The number of students who passed is greater than the number of students who failed.

2. A bar chart displays the number of students who passed or failed a math exam. The x-axis represents the outcome (Pass/Fail) and the y-axis represents the number of students. The chart shows that 15 students passed and 10 students failed. Which of the following statements is true?
