Imagining Personal Data Vaike Fors, Sarah Pink, Martin Berg, Tom O'Dell, 2020-05-04. Digital self-tracking devices and data have become normal elements of everyday life. Imagining Personal Data examines the implications of the rise of body monitoring and digital self-tracking for how we inhabit experience and imagine our everyday worlds and futures. Through a focus on how it feels to live in environments where data is emergent, present, and characterized by a sense of uncertainty, the authors argue for a new interdisciplinary approach to understanding the implications of self-tracking, which attends to its past, present, and possible future. Building on social science approaches, the book accounts for the concerns of scholars working in design, philosophy, and human-computer interaction. It problematizes the body and senses in relation to data and tracking devices, presents an accessible analytical account of the sensory and affective experiences of self-tracking, and questions the status of big data. In doing so, it proposes an agenda for future research and design that puts people at its centre.
