Education in Palliative Care Bee Wee, Nic Hughes, 2007-02-22 Despite the fact that most palliative care educators are involved in teaching there is little literature devoted to education specifically within palliative care This book bridges that gap giving a wide ranging global view of palliative care education It offers theoretical and practical insights along with specific suggestions for developing knowledge and skills for teaching It also contains extensive accounts of important contextual matters which influence the range and quality of palliative care education including interprofessional learning continuing professional development evaluation and educational leadership The development of palliative care as a clinical speciality is increasingly conducted at an international level and a special feature of this book is the inclusion of chapters reviewing palliative care education in each continent This enables practitioners and teachers to share knowledge across diverse healthcare systems and cultures There is also an acknowledgement of the multi professional team involved in palliative care as education and training are looked at from the perspectives of doctors nurses and allied health professionals The book is split into three distinct parts Part 1 sets the scene for existing palliative care education both in the UK and internationally Part 2 focuses on the theory underpinning each aspect of teaching learning and assessment and then examines the practicalities of delivering these in the clinical setting Part 3 explores ways of building and nurturing a culture of learning in palliative care whether as an individual or as an organization

Transforming Curriculum Through Teacher-Learner Partnerships Nair, Pradeep, Keppell, Michael James, Lim, Chee Leong, Mari, Tamil Salvi, Hassan, Nurhanim, 2020-12-11 Empowering learners for life requires a fundamental shift in higher education curriculum design New priorities pedagogies technologies spaces and assessment strategies are required to enable learners to take ownership of their learning Student centeredness concepts are still prescriptive in nature as most decisions on curriculum assessment teaching and learning approaches are still teacher centric Teachers are developing student centered learning environments without the involvement of the learners in the planning decision making and or design process In addition some lecturers are still practicing the traditional approaches of content delivery and conventional assessment methods rather than experimenting with innovative practices suited for student centered approaches Therefore there is an ongoing need for research focused on the importance and effectiveness of a paradigm shift in education that involves student teacher partnerships fueled by innovative teaching and learning designs where students take an active role and contribute as partners in learning Transforming Curriculum Through Teacher Learner Partnerships captures experiences and evidence among teachers in exploring the possibility of active student participation in curriculum design delivery and assessment through teacher learner partnership The chapters address issues of teacher learner partnerships in designing the learning environment and how student centered methods create resilient adaptable and future capable learners While highlighting topics within this scope such as learner autonomy learning performance self efficacy and teaching pedagogy this book is ideally intended for teachers administrators teacher educators practitioners stakeholders researchers academicians and students interested in issues related to the teacher learner partnership

STEM Education from Asia Tang Wee Teo, Aik-Ling Tan, Paul Teng, 2021-12-24 Asia is the largest continent in the world. Five out of the top ten high performing economies in the Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA) 2018 are located in Asia. Why do Asian students perform so well in STEM related subjects? This book answers this by examining the STEM education policies and initiatives in Asian economies as well as the training programmes undertaken by STEM teachers in Asia. The book is broken into four sections, each accompanied by a passage of commentary that summarizes the key takeaways of the chapters. Section one focuses on STEM policy environments and how various countries have developed policies that promote STEM as an integral part of national economic development. Section two focuses on STEM teacher education in the Philippines and Thailand, while section three focuses on STEM curriculum design, context and challenges in four Asian economies. The fourth and final section focuses on presenting snapshots of STEM education research efforts in Malaysia, South Korea and Singapore. Written by Asian academics, this book will provide valuable insights to policy makers, educators and researchers interested in the topic of STEM education, especially in the Asian context. Chapters 7 and 11 of this book are freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com>. Science Education in the 21st Century Tang Wee Teo, Aik-Ling Tan, Yann Shiou Ong, 2020-06-29 This book reflects on science education in the first 20 years of the 21st century in order to promote academic dialogue on science education from various standpoints and highlights emergent new issues such as education in science education research. It also defines new research agendas that should be moved forward and inform new trajectories through the rest of the century. Featuring 21 thematically grouped chapters, it includes award winning papers and other significant papers that address the theme of the 2018 International Science Education Conference.

The American Food Journal, 1924 Fintech Pranay Gupta, T. Mandy Tham, 2018-12-03 This extraordinary book, written by leading players in a burgeoning technology revolution, is about the merger of finance and technology, fintech, and covers its various aspects and how they impact each discipline within the financial services industry. It is an honest and direct analysis of where each segment of financial services will stand. Fintech: The New DNA of Financial Services provides an in-depth introduction to understanding the various areas of fintech and terminology such as AI, big data, robo advisory, blockchain, cryptocurrency, InsurTech, cloud computing, crowdfunding and many more. Contributions from fintech innovators discuss banking, insurance and investment management applications as well as the legal and human resource implications of fintech in the future. Towards Post-Native-Speakerism Stephanie Ann Houghton, Kayoko Hashimoto, 2017-12-05 This book probes for a post-native speakerist future. It explores the nature of English and Japanese native speakerism in the Japanese context and possible grounds on which language teachers could be employed if native speakerism is rejected, i.e. what are the language teachers of the future expected to do and be in practice It reveals the problems presented by the native speaker model in foreign language education by exploring individual teacher researcher narratives related to workplace experience and language based inclusion exclusion as well as Japanese native speakerism in the teaching of Japanese as a foreign language It then seeks solutions to the problems by examining the concept of post native speakerism in relation to multilingual perspectives and globalisation generally with a specific focus on education
