Text Comparison Essay Rubric (Pregunta #4)

Interpretation of text	Frequent errors of interpretation, may omit central elements of plot summary without citing examples relevant to the theme.	Some errors of interpretation, presents main points and some details, describes basic elements but may not cite examples or support argument.	Some errors of interpretation but do not detract from overall quality; Elaborates on main points and supports observations by citing examples which may not always be clear and relevant.	Supports analysis by citing and discussing appropriate textual examples.	Supports analysis by integrating specific, well-chosen textual examples throughout the response.
Theme analysis (what the work says)	Demonstrates lack of understanding of the theme.	Describes the presence of the theme in one text, but the description of the theme in the other text is weak.	Describes the presence of the theme in both texts.	Explains and compares the presence of the theme in both texts.	Analyzes the development of the theme in both texts to support comparative analysis.
Rhetorical, stylistic, structural analysis (how the writers write)	Identifies some features in the texts but does not explain their relevance to the theme.	Identifies some features in one or both texts, but may not explain their relevance to the theme.	Describes some features in both texts and attempts to explain their relevance to the theme.	Makes distinctions between features in both texts in relation to the development of the theme.	Analyzes features in both works in relation to the development of the theme.

A score is given to any essay in which the response is so brief or poorly written as to be meaningless, is blank, in English, or merely repeats the prompt.
