McCluskey-Fawcett, Paul E.

McGhee, 2013-09-24 Humor and Aging deals with humor throughout the life span although primary attention is given to humor about and by the elderly The book contains theoretical and review material from infancy to old age and includes empirical studies of death and dying in both our own and other societies The book is divided into four parts Part I considers theoretical models of humor development across the life span and discusses physiological psychological and sociological processes Part II deals with ways of considering humor and aging from different vantage points These include 1 humor about people of different ages 2 humor for people of different ages and 3 humor by people of different ages Part III addresses the grim subject of death and dying and how it lends itself to humorous treatment in our own and other societies Part IV contains brief empirical reports Since scientific research in humor and aging is only beginning it seems important to discuss pilot work in hopes that others will follow Finally an epilogue by Loeb and Wood presents a compelling theoretical approach
