For students using the Foundation edition, assign problems 1, 3–5, 7–12, 14, 15, 18–20.

Essential Understanding Ions form when atoms gain or lose valence electrons, becoming electrically charged.

Lesson Summary

Valence Electrons Valence electrons are the electrons in the outermost occupied energy level and are involved in ion formation.

- ▶ For a representative element, the group number equals the number of valence electrons the atom contains.
- ▶ An electron dot structure shows the symbol of the element and its valence electrons.
- ▶ Atoms tend to gain or lose the number of electrons that will provide the atom with a noble gas electron configuration.

Formation of Cations Cations are positively charged ions formed when an atom loses one or more valence electrons.

- ▶ Atoms and the cations formed from them have different properties.
- ▶ Elements in Group 1 form cations with a charge of $1+$, and those in Group 2 form cations with a charge of $2+$.
- ▶ Many transition metals form more than one cation and do not follow the octet rule.

Formation of Anions Anions are negatively charged ions formed when an atom gains one or more valence electrons.

- ▶ Commonly, the name of an anion ends in -ide.
- ▶ Anions form from nonmetallic elements.
- ▶ The anions formed from halogens are known as halides.

After reading Lesson 7.1, answer the following questions.

A Guide to Teaching in the Active Learning Classroom Paul Baepler,J. D. Walker,D. Christopher Brooks,Kem Saichaie,Christina I. Petersen,2023-07-03

While Active Learning Classrooms or ALCs offer rich new environments for learning they present many new challenges to faculty because among other things they eliminate the room s central focal point and disrupt the conventional seating plan to which faculty and students have become accustomed The importance of learning how to use these classrooms well and to capitalize on their special features is paramount The potential they represent can be realized only when they facilitate improved learning outcomes and engage students in the learning process in a manner different from traditional classrooms and lecture halls This book provides an introduction to ALCs briefly covering their history and then synthesizing the research on these spaces to provide faculty with empirically based practical guidance on how to use these unfamiliar spaces effectively Among the questions this book addresses are How can instructors mitigate the apparent lack of a central focal point in the space What types of learning activities work well in the ALCs and take advantage of the affordances of the room How can teachers address familiar classroom management challenges in these unfamiliar spaces If assessment and rapid feedback are critical in active learning how do they work in a room filled with circular tables and no central focus point How do instructors balance group learning with the needs of the larger class How can students be held accountable when many will necessarily have their backs facing the instructor How can instructors evaluate the effectiveness of their teaching in these spaces This book is intended for faculty preparing to teach in or already working in this new classroom environment for administrators planning to create ALCs or experimenting with provisionally designed rooms and for faculty developers helping teachers transition to using these new spaces
