This system is designed to capture the essential (200–2000 Å) covered range, the one intended to capture the really big bang optical emission lines. The multi-channel diffracting the light into a few channels in long gratings. They will provide the comprehensive set of spectra that is obtained here. The last channel is an echelle grating illuminated by a slit mask. When the light is sent to the really big bang, the light is diffracted equally (split) into five channels. The last channel is designed to be the most sensitive. It is the most sensitive being the most sensitive in a 200–2000 Å range.

Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-volume exercise program on the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women. The program was designed to be a safe and effective means of increasing physical activity in sedentary women. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes. The sessions included a warm-up, a low-impact aerobic workout, and a low-intensity strength training routine. The results of the study showed that the program had a positive effect on the physical fitness of the women. There was a significant increase in heart rate, blood pressure, and body mass index (BMI) over the 12-week period. The program was well-tolerated by the women, and they reported a decrease in fatigue and an increase in energy levels. The findings of this study suggest that a low-intensity, low-impact, and low-volume exercise program can be an effective means of improving physical fitness in sedentary, middle-aged women.
