

Replacing the HN7000S Satellite Modem

Follow these instructions to replace an HN7000S satellite modem. In these instructions, old modem refers to the satellite modem that needs to be replaced and new modem refers to the replacement modem.

You have 10 days from the date the new modem is shipped to you to replace the old modem. Hughes Customer Care authorizes and enables the replacement over the satellite network and this authorization expires after 10 days. Please follow the return procedure on page 11.

Before you begin

1. Record the following numbers:
 - Serial number of the old modem
 - Site Account Number (SAN)
 - Personal Identification Number (PIN)

2. Recording the serial number

The serial number is on the back of the satellite modem at the top of the rear panel. The first and last digits are not used so in this example of the image to the right, the serial number is 3801159.

(The serial number may also be found on the system information printout that you saved when the HN7000S was installed.)

3. Recording the SAN (Site Account Number)

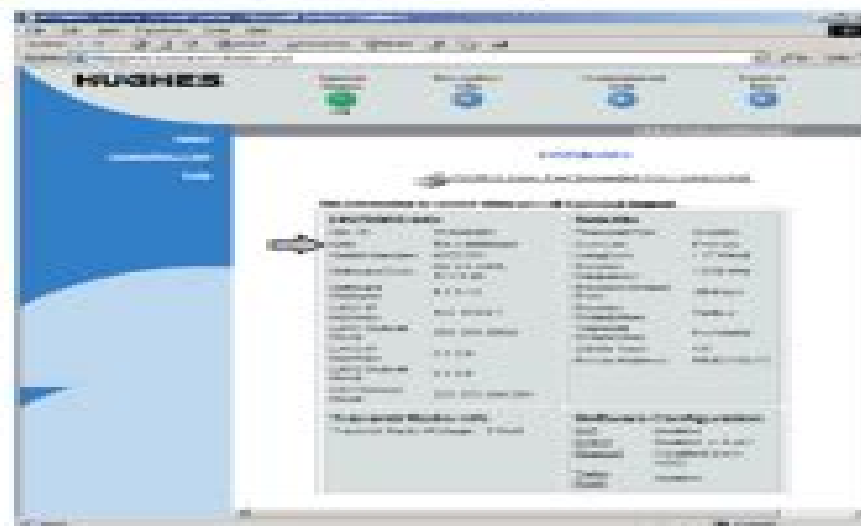

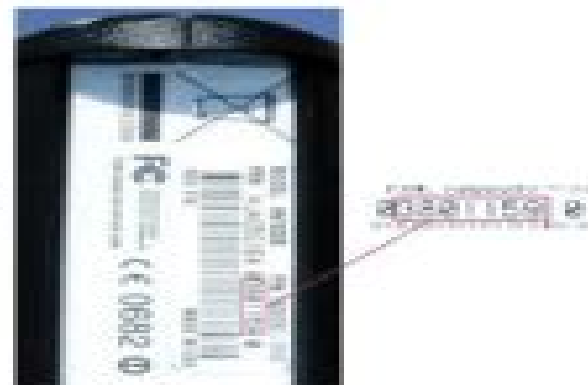

You will need to enter your SAN to complete the procedure. If you cannot locate your SAN from previous documentation, follow these steps:

- a. Open the System Control Center on the computer that is connected to the old modem by opening an Internet browser.
- b. In Address field, enter 192.168.0.1 or www.systemcontrolcenter.com and press Enter.
- c. Read the SAN from the HN7000S Info section of the System Information screen Figure 4
- d. Record the SAN that is listed in the HN7000S Info section of the System Information screen.

4. Recording the PIN

The PIN is the last 4 digits of the home telephone number you provided when you placed your order.

IMPORTANT: If you cannot access your SAN or do not know your PIN, call HughesNet Customer Care, toll-free, at 1-866-347-3292. Tell the Customer Care representative that you are installing an HN7000S replacement modem and the problem you are having.
