

The upper population is carrying capacity during the summer with spring months - the lower the density the population drops during with spring months.

Activity 4:

Density-dependent or density independent

Explain the density effect

- Density Effect
- In the density effect, the population size is affected by the amount of space available

Introduction: Population density is the number of individuals in a population per unit of space. Factors limiting growth rate affect population, either in a density-dependent or density-independent manner. These limiting factors are divided into Density-dependent limiting factors and Density-independent limiting factors.

Question: How does a density-dependent limiting factor affect carrying capacity?

1. Challenge question: What do you think would happen if a density-dependent limiting factor is present?

Population size will decrease.

2. Challenge question: A decreasing trend in birth rate is a density-dependent limiting factor. How does this affect the environment's carrying capacity?

Capacity will decrease because there will be a decreasing trend in population size.

3. Challenge question: How do factors that limit carrying capacity with density-dependent limiting factors affect the carrying capacity?

4. Challenge question: How do the amount of space available in the habitat affect how many individuals the environment can support?

The larger the space available the larger the carrying capacity will be.

5. Challenge question: Why do you think limiting a population's space decreases the carrying capacity?

The carrying capacity of the environment will decrease.

6. Challenge question: What other factors might limit another density-dependent limiting factor? (Density)
