In this book, Esther Leslie enlightens us, offering an accessible and fascinating look at not a substance, not a technology, but a wholly different phase of matter. As she explains, liquid crystal is a curious material phase that organizes a substance's molecules in a crystalline form yet allows them to move fluidly like water. Observed since the nineteenth century, this phase has been a deep curiosity to science and, in more recent times, the key to a new era of media technology. In between that time, as Leslie shows, it has figured in cultural forms from Romantic landscape painting to snow globes, from mountaineering to eco disasters and from touchscreen devices to DNA. Expertly written but accessible, Liquid Crystals recounts the unheralded but hugely significant emergence of this unique form of matter.

High Dynamic Range Video Karol Myszkowski, Rafal Mantiuk, Grzegorz Krawczyk, 2022-05-31 As new displays and cameras offer enhanced color capabilities, there is a need to extend the precision of digital content. High Dynamic Range (HDR) imaging encodes images and video with higher than normal 8-bit per color channel precision, enabling representation of the complete color gamut and the full visible range of luminance. However, to realize transition from the traditional to HDR imaging, it is necessary to develop imaging algorithms that work with the high precision data. To make such algorithms effective and feasible in practice, it is necessary to take advantage of the limitations of the human visual system by aligning the data shortcomings to those of the human eye, thus limiting storage and processing precision. Therefore, human visual perception is the key component of the solutions we discuss in this book. This book presents a complete pipeline for HDR image and video processing, from acquisition through compression and quality evaluation to display. At the HDR image and video acquisition stage, specialized HDR sensors or multi-exposure techniques suitable for traditional cameras are discussed. Then we present a practical solution for pixel values calibration in terms of photometric or radiometric quantities which are required in some technically oriented applications. Also, we cover the problem of efficient image and video compression and encoding, either for storage or transmission purposes, including the aspect of backward compatibility with existing formats. Finally, we review existing HDR display technologies and the associated problems of image contrast and brightness adjustment. For this purpose, tone mapping is employed to accommodate HDR content to LDR devices. Conversely, the so-called inverse tone mapping is required to upgrade LDR content for displaying on HDR devices. We overview HDR-enabled image and video quality metrics which are needed to verify algorithms at all stages of the pipeline. Additionally, we cover successful examples of the HDR technology applications, in particular in computer graphics and computer vision. The goal of this book is to present all discussed components of the HDR pipeline with the main focus on video. For some pipeline stages, HDR video solutions are either not well established or do not exist at all, in which case we describe techniques for single HDR images. In such cases, we attempt to select the techniques which can be extended into
