sport and related physical practices including physical education gymnastics and military training have shaped a national consciousness by locating it in everyday experience These practices are popular participatory performative and above all physical in character and embody ideas and ideologies in a symbolic and experiential way Embodied Nation takes readers on a brisk ride through more than a century of Lao history from a nineteenth century game of tikhi an indigenous game resembling field hockey to the country's unprecedented outpouring of nationalist sentiment when hosting the 2009 Southeast Asian Games En route we witness a Lao Vietnamese soccer brawl in 1936 the fascist inspired body ethic of the early 1940s the novel modes of military masculinity that blossomed with national independence the spectacular state theatrics of power represented by Olympic inspired sports festivals and the high hopes and frequent failures of socialist sport in the 1970s and 1980s Of central concern in Creak's narrative are the twin motifs of gender and civilization Despite increasing female participation since the early twentieth century he demonstrates the major role that sport and physical culture have played in forming hegemonic masculinities in Laos Even with limited national sporting success Laos has never won an Olympic medal the healthy toned and muscular form has come to symbolize material development and prosperity Embodied Nation outlines the complex ways in which these motifs through sport and physical culture articulate with state power Combining cultural and intellectual history with historical thick description Creak draws on a creative array of Lao and French sources from previously unexplored archives newspapers and magazines and from ethnographic writing war photography and cartoons More than an imagined community or geobody he shows that Laos was also a body at work making substantive theoretical contributions not only to Southeast Asian studies and history but to the study of the physical culture nationalism masculinity and modernity in all modern societies Heritage and the Making of Political Legitimacy in Laos Phill Wilcox, 2025-10-01 The Lao People's Democratic Republic is nearly fifty years old and one of the few surviving one party socialist states Nearly five decades on from its revolutionary birth the Lao population continues to build futures in and around a political landscape that maintains socialist rhetoric on the one hand and capitalist economics on the other Contemporary Lao politics is marked by the use of cultural heritage as a source of political legitimacy Researched through long term detailed ethnography in the former royal capital of Luang Prabang itself a UNESCO recognized World Heritage Site since 1995 this book takes a fresh look at issues of legitimacy heritage and national identity for different members of the Lao population It argues that the political system has become sufficiently embedded to avoid imminent risk of collapse but suggests that it is facing new challenges primarily in the form of rising Chinese influence in Laos The Landscape of Global Health Inequity Barbara W. K. Son, 2024-07-10 This book presents a unique overview of significant disparities in health which exist within complex and multifaceted contexts across different regions In the twenty first century global health inequity presents substantial health challenges encompassing diverse and interconnected ramifications across socioeconomic cultural and political dimensions Additionally it thoroughly explores the interconnected and multifaceted underlying factors that are widespread in developing
