control system can mitigate unwanted behavior during remote work The experimental study manipulates the use of management controls and analyzes the effects of an enabling vs a coercive management control system on dishonest behavior The data reveal that individuals who perceive the system as enabling and feel a connection to the company behave more honestly during remote work The organizational connection entirely mediates the perception of the management control system on dishonest behavior To further investigate this effect a case study approach was applied Based on interviews several factors are identified that might impact the enabling perception of the control system in remote work settings The six factors are divided into situational and individual attributes
