

ENDOCRINE SYSTEM

Endocrine System: WORKING TOGETHER

Each organ system works on other systems within the body to do its "job". See below to learn just some of the ways that the endocrine system interacts with other organ systems.

Nervous System

Circulatory System

Endocrine System: FACTS

Endocrine System: PROBLEMS

Most of the time, the endocrine system works perfectly well. However, sometimes problems can arise.

Diabetes

Diabetes is a condition that causes high blood glucose (sugar) levels. It is caused by the body being unable to either produce or use the hormone insulin. So, the glucose (sugar) gets stuck in the blood. Symptoms include increased thirst, weight gain, changes in vision, frequent urination, slow wound healing, and changes in mood. It can also lead to long-term complications like heart disease, kidney problems, and nerve damage.

Endocrine System: KEY TERMS

Term	Definition
Endocrine System	Network of endocrine glands that make, store, and release hormones.
Hormones	Chemical messengers that carry information and instructions from one part of the body to another.

Endocrine System: HORMONES

Hormones are chemical signals. Hormones are released into the bloodstream by endocrine glands. They travel through the bloodstream to target cells, where they bind to receptors and cause a specific response. Hormones can affect many different parts of the body, including growth, metabolism, and reproduction.

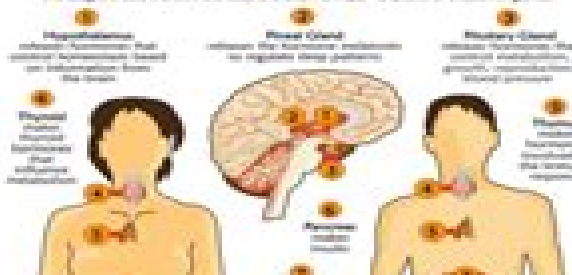

Endocrine System: FIGHT-OR-FLIGHT

The fight-or-flight response is a reaction that occurs in the body when you are really frightened. The hormone adrenaline (also called epinephrine) is released by the adrenal glands. Adrenaline makes your heart beat faster, your breathing faster, and your muscles tense up. This helps you to react quickly to a dangerous situation. The hormone cortisol is also released by the adrenal glands. Cortisol helps to break down fats and proteins into energy, which is used by the body to fight or flee from danger.

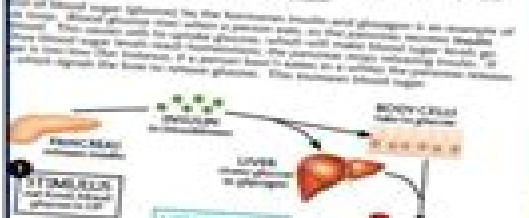

Endocrine System: GLANDS

A gland is a structure that produces and releases substances that perform a specific function in the body. Some glands release hormones, while others release enzymes or other substances. The endocrine system is made up of glands that release hormones. The major glands of the endocrine system are the hypothalamus, pituitary, thyroid, parathyroid, adrenal, pancreas, and ovaries/testes.

Endocrine System: FEEDBACK LOOPS

Endocrine activities are regulated by complex feedback loops. These feedback loops help the body maintain a balance of hormones. When a hormone level is too high or too low, the body sends a signal to the glands to produce more or less of that hormone. This signal is called a feedback loop. The feedback loop helps to keep hormone levels stable.
